The new general school bill was under discussion at adjournment, and Mr. WARNER had Allegheny county exempted from the first section, requiring the appointment by Boards of Directors of Local Superintendents.

APPORTIONMENT.

The House in the afternoon passed the Republican apportionment bill to second reading, the Democrats making numerous ineffectual attempts to amend it.

FORTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, March 30, 1871.

SENATE.

Mr. DAVIS of Kentucky offered a resolution calling upon the Secretaries of the Treasury, of War and of the Navy to report to the Senate next session a schedule of property by classes with its estimated value, which has been seized or taken possession of since January first 1861 by order or authority of their departments respectively; what disposition has been made of said property; proportions sold; what became of the money raised therefrom, how much went into the Treasury and how much to individuals with the names and amount to each and what portion of said property &c, was delivered to and retained by individuals with their names. Laid over till to-morrow.

BOUNTIES.

A motion entered some time since by Mr. Morrell of Vermont, to reconsider the vote passing Mr. Wilson's hundred dollar bounty bill to carry out the decision of the Supreme Court was adopted.

Mr. WILSON then moved a modification bill to give the bounty to those who had been disabled by sickness or disability contracted in service. This would reach about half the cases under the decision of the Court, and the remainder would have to be provided for hereafter.

Mr. CASSERLY desired time to examine the matter, and upon his request the subject went over without action till to-morrow.

CHANGE OF ORDER.

The consideration of Mr. Anthony's amendment to the order of business to allow the consideration of any bill for the South passed by the House of Representatives was resumed.

Mr. DAVIS (Kentucky) spoke in refutation of the charges by Mr. Sherman against the peace and order of the South, particularly his own State. He defended the loyalty and law-abiding character of the people of Kentucky and enumerated the various grievances to which they had been subjected at the hands of the general Government, among which was the refusal to make compensation to their owners for slaves enlisted in the army at the beginning of the war. In Kentucky, Maryland and other loyal States, Congress had refused to pay the appropriation of $300 for each slave, and he believed the Senator (Sherman) was among those who so voted.

Mr. SHERMAN replied he had been in favor of paying the $300 and believed there was at the time a majority in the Senate in favor of it.

Mr. POMEROY—"I would not vote to pay it."

Mr. BLAIR here explained the payment had been prevented by unauthorized acts of Secretary Stanton.

Mr. DAVIS—"A more lawless dictator was never in power than that same Secretary of War. If justice had been dealt out to him in his lifetime for his crimes he would have been hung a hundred times for murder and put in the penitentiary ten thousand times for his crimes." [Sensation.]

At this point the morning hour expired, when it was agreed to take a vote upon the question.

Mr. Thurman's amendment requiring any bill that might be received from the House to be referred to a Committee before action by the Senate, was voted down, only fourteen Senators rising in the affirmative.

Mr. Anthony's resolution was then adopted without division.

Mr. Sherman's resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to bring in a bill to repress Ku-Klux outrages was then proceeded with.

Mr. MORTON said he would conclude what he had to say by asking for the reading of an editorial from the Louisville Courier Journal on the Kentucky Legislature. It was a photograph by a Democratic paper of a Democratic Legislature.

The article was read. It in substance declared that the Ku-Klux existed in Kentucky in formidable numbers; that the Legislature had failed to do anything to suppress them but spent its time in whisky and champagne drinking, smoking segars, lobbying and praying that the State may never look upon its like again.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, whose remarks had been interrupted by the expiration of the morning hour, was awarded the floor. He gave notice that he would present his views at length at the proper time, and would then pay his respects to the Administration, taking authority for all he would say from the historic records of the Administration as made by its own friends.

Mr. WILSON said he held in his hand a list of the victims of murder and outrage committed in Kentucky in the last month of 1865 and the first ten months of 1866, and to this he invited the attention of Senator Davis and his colleague, Mr. Stevenson. It appeared in this time there were nineteen murders of freedmen and two hundred and thirty-three cases where freedmen had been maltreated without being killed. Two white Union men were in the same time murdered, and four others assaulted with intent to kill. It might be an interesting task for the two Senators from Kentucky to attempt to furnish a list of officers who suffered death or imprisonment for these outrages; had there been a single case of punishment? The honorable Senators might argue from now till eternity, but could not obliterate these facts.

Mr. DAVIS replied that many outrages were committed by negroes upon negroes. It was certainly true such lawlessness had prevailed in Kentucky just after the soldiers of both armies were wandering about plundering and wreaking private vengeance, but now comparative quiet prevails.

Mr. STEVENSON said the only fault of the people of Kentucky was in refusing to believe in the superiority of the negro race. To show the Senator from Indiana (Mr. Morton) at one time entertained the same views, he read extracts from a speech delivered by him in '65, opposing negro suffrage as dangerous to the country, holding negroes to be unfit to wield the franchise, and stating they should undergo a probationary period.

Mr. MORTON proceeded to read from what he stated to be an official list of murders and outrages committed in Kentucky.

Mr. STEVENSON inquired what official list be meant.

Mr. MORTON replied that it was an official record prepared by the Freedmen's Bureau.

Mr. STEVENSON—We do not recognize the Freedmen's Bureau as an authority in Kentucky.

Mr. MORTON—You do not recognize any authority; you do not allow negroes to testify and if you could succeed in excluding all testimony, it would be easy for you to prove Kentucky is a law-abiding State.

Mr. BLAIR desired Senator Morton to answer candidly one question—whether negroes had not been entrusted with the ballot in order to obtain Republican votes?

Mr. MORTON replied it was well known that reconstruction could not be accomplished on the white basis. White people South would not accept the situation.

Mr. BLAIR—They did accept the situation. They did abolish slavery, and never lifted a hand against the Government ever since; and any one who asserts the contrary asserts that which is not true.

Mr. MORTON explained in reply to Sherman that he did not mean to say lawlessness was universal among the Democratic party in Kentucky. He admitted the late Governor and now Senator Stevenson and two Democratic Judges had done their duty, as also one Democratic paper the Louisville Courier Journal out of forty published in the State, but they were unable to influence the Democratic party of the State.

Mr. POOL obtained the floor and at 5 o'clock after a brief executive session, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

On motion of Mr. WILSON of Indiana the House took up and passed the Senate bill granting to Phoebe Sofield a pension of eighty dollars a month from June 5th, 1870 she being at that time one hundred years old and a widow of a Revolutionary soldier.

SOUTHERN OUTRAGES.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the bill reported from the special Committee.

Mr. BECK said this was not the bill he thought at one time would be introduced. The bill the gentleman from Massachusetts proposed would deal vengeance on the States of the South and Kentucky. This bill was bad enough. It had merit in its audacity, and it sought to reach all States and all people. This bantling of the President after barbarous incubation had been hatched and was now before them to destroy the rights of States and people, and to put into the hands of the President, unless the bill shall be killed here, omnipotent power everywhere. This bill would make the President a dictator, to destroy the liberties of the people. Those who aided and abetted the bill would become more odious than the Ku Klux desperadoes of the South. The gentleman from Massachusetts (Butler) said the bill met with the approval of the majority of the Republicans of the House.

Mr. DAWES—"My colleague did say so."

Mr. BECK—It may be a lie. Nobody contradicted him, and I want that bill printed and circulated, accompanied with the remark of General Butler that the majority of the Republicans of the House approved it. It failed to become a law only because of the opposition by Democrats.

Mr. DAWES—No man on this or the other side is authorized to say the majority of the Republicans in this House are in favor of the bill. There was in caucus no record, no vote, no such public or private expression of opinion.

Mr. BECK, I do not say it is so but it was so announced by General Butler who said the caucus agreed to stand by his bill. I will let the gentleman and his colleague settle the matter between them. In the course of his remarks he said he would protect citizens anywhere without reference to race color or previous condition of servitude. The Democracy would do the same thing and when they failed to do so he would no longer belong to that party, but he would not subvert the constitution of the country and make the President a dictator. The pretext for the passage of this bill was an excuse for the cry of war, murder and Ku Klux, so as to divert the people from thinking of the extravagance of class legislation and land and railroad swindles.

Mr. BLAIR of Michigan, said in his opinion this house ought to have adjourned directly after it organized. He wished that the laws as they stood might be thoroughly tested before they entered on new and untried fields of Legislation. Many and broad powers had been granted to the President, for the preservation of order in the late insurrectionary states. Why pile statute upon statute to be unused? his conviction was, it was not law that was wanted in the South, it was execution of the law and that law had been confided to another branch of the government. That there are great disorders in the South there is no doubt.

Ku-Klux was not a new institution. It was only a little more devilish than in times past. It was another phase of lynch law which prevailed in the South ever since he could remember. The act of May 1870, known as the enforcement act, seemed to have been made to meet the existing condition of affairs. This, he repeated, appeared to be broad, clear and definite enough to meet all the acts of lawless bands and conspirators. The strong arm of the law ought to be applied to suppress all conspirators and obstructions to the law. In reply to Mr. Beck, he said the gentleman from Kentucky had declared his readiness to put down all offenders in the most severe manner. They had heard enough of that from the time the rebellion began until this hour. Congress was full of such patriots as would put down disorders and abuses in the country, but they could never find the power to do so. They would always doubt the evidence of the existence of lawlessness, and when they found it out they would point to the Constitution, and however great the evil, they were unable to find power to interfere. If the gentleman from Kentucky was serious in denouncing the President as a usurper, let him go and sit down and talk with the President five minutes, and if the gentleman comes away thinking the President is a Napoleon who is preparing his guns to batter down the defences of our liberty and make himself an Imperial despot, then he (Mr. Blair) should be much disappointed. All the gentleman's talk was exceedingly idle. If he had been on the stump in Kentucky harranguing the mob who assaulted the colored agent of the post office no doubt he would have been applauded. All the clamor made was for mere political effect to help the Democratic party into power.

FERNANDO WOOD was the next speaker. He discussed the bill at great length, and denounced it as making the President a lawless dictator, responsible to no one, and said there was no evidence of the existence of wide spread opposition to law and order, and as an evidence of the falsehood of the alleged Ku Klux outrages as general in the South, referred to the fact of the large increase in staple productions in that section over former years, and Congress had higher duties to perform than to agitate subjects like this. The duty of Congress was to provide for the reduction of taxation and public expenditures, to abolish sinecure offices, to restore the currency to a specie basis, to reduce the army to a peace footing, to provide against the accumulation and retention of large sums of money in the public treasury, and so prevent purchase and sale of the public credit by the Secretary of the Treasury at his own option.

Mr. WOOD commented on the following remark in Mr. Kelley's speech: "Do not dream that you can disfranchise these men. They know what freedom is, and the worm will turn and sting, if we do not interpose to give them safety, and you have not the generosity to do it. Beware! for a day may come when for every freedman's hut that is desolated, ten blazing mansions may illumine midnight. If millions of people are to be driven to despair, sink them not to that condition. Save yourself by proving there is in you as much humanity as there was in the slaves, who, while you warred for their degradation and enslavement, labored for and watched over your children and wives."

Mr. WOOD said these remarks were incendiary, and he never felt more indignant in his life than when he heard them, and never more disposed to commit a breach of decorum in the House in denouncing the damnable wickedness of the passage. I hope if a war of races should take place, and if colored men should begin to fight, they would select a more valiant man for their leader than the gentleman from Pennsylvania, who, in Mobile, during a disturbance, crept under a table.

Mr. KELLY—There is no foundation for that story, but sixty-seven balls were shot at me.

Mr. WOOD (continuing his sentence), and not creep under a table and pretend to be dead?

Mr. KELLY—That story, come from what quarter it may, is false.

Mr. WOOD said the gentleman had made bombastic appeals to the negro, but could not face the fire himself. He had given the gentleman an opportunity to explain.

Mr. BROOKS (New York) said he did not agree in the remarks of some of his friends that the bill of General Butler was a worse one than this. He did not think it so bad a bill, inasmuch as Butler deprived only the Southern people of their rights and liberties under the Constitution, while this bill, because of alleged outrages in two or three Southern States, put it in the power of the President to deprive all innocent people north and west of habeas corpus and subject them all to martial law at his pleasure and caprice.

Mr. MAYNARD read an article from the Chatanooga Times, March 3d, 1871, which after alluding to the remark of Senator Thurman to the effect that Ku-Klux ought not to be put down, makes the following comment to which Maynard called attention. It was as follows: "Now no person pretends to deny that crimes and outrages are committed in the South by organized bodies of masked marauders, some of whom belong to the secret political society known as the Ku-Klux." Mr. Maynard said this admission came from a friend of gentlemen on the other side.

Mr. ELDRIDGE asked the gentleman to read the remaining part of the article. The gentleman knew what was read did not give the ideas of the author.

Mr. MAYNARD replied if the gentleman thought he knew more about it than he (Mr. Maynard) did he could make use of the article for his own benefit.

Mr. ELDRIDGE said he did not think he knew more about it than the gentleman.

Mr. MAYNARD resuming, said there exists among a portion of the people of the South lawless bands of people, placing life and property in peril and acting with a common purpose and a common intent. He then advocated the passage of the bill.

Mr. ELDRIDGE charged Mr. Maynard with having cut in two the article from the Chattanooga Times, and then read the entire article. In substance the outcry about outrages by Ku-Klux was simply a pretext to station troops in the South, so as to carry the Presidential election by force for the Republican party. This could only serve to fan into life the fast expiring embers of civil strife. The final remedy is the cultivation of a proper public spirit, which will demand the enforcement of the law. Stationing troops in the South would only aggravate the evil of which complaint is made.

House at 4:30 adjourned.

CANADA.

CANAL LEGISLATION.

OTTAWA, March 30.—In the House of Commons last night the Hon. Mr. Lorgiven, Minister of Public Works, explained the canal policy of the Government in connection with the report of the Commissioners. No vote would be asked for Sault St. Marie Canal this session, but about $600,000 and $250,000 would be asked respectively for enlarging Welland and Ottawa canals in accordance with the recommendation of the Commissioners. Nothing would be done with Shambly Canal, Murray Bay Canal, and deepening the St. Lawrence between Montreal and Quebec, but there would be an item of $100,000 in supplementary estimates for deepening the river between Kingston and Montreal.

Mr. McKenzie said he did not think an enlargement of the Welland Canal would produce the results anticipated, but would rather benefit Oswego. He thought the best line for western trade to be the large canal along the Ottawa, which Mr. Shandly said could be constructed for $12,000,000.

WASHINGTON, March 30 1871.

SOUTHERN OUTRAGES.

The Senate select Committee on Southern Outrages has been engaged for several days past in taking testimony. Various persons from Mississippi and South Carolina, among these Colonel Huggins, of the former State, and several members of the South Carolina Legislature, who have been examined or remain in the city for that purpose. It is not improbable that the committee will make a supplementary report before Congress adjourns.

The joint committee of twenty-one, proposed by the House resolution, is now in the Senate, having been laid aside at the time of its reception, and it will undoubtedly be passed. If it should be determined not to pass this resolution, the Senate select committee will undoubtedly pursue the investigation during the recess. The committee going south for that purpose. It is designed to make a thorough examination of the Southern affairs, and report at the next session.

Representative Walls, of Florida, is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Gibbs, Secretary of State, giving some account of the increase of the lawlessness in that State. A great number of murders and attempts to murder are mentioned, the victims of which, Mr. Gibbs says, have been national or State officers.

A SCENE IN THE SENATE.

Just prior to the conclusion of Davis' remarks in the Senate to-day an incident of an unusual character occurred which excited considerable comment in the galleries and upon the floor of the House of Representatives. B. F. Butler of Massachusetts, who was occupying the seat of Senator Thurman immediately adjoining that of the Senator from Kentucky had for some time been intently observing Davis as he proceeded the latter apparently growing restive and disconcerted under the steady gaze of the Massachusetts member, and speaking with his usual warmth and earnestness. He suddenly faced that gentleman and continuing his Ku-Klux stories, said, "These factitious charges are originated by parties to affect the coming elections. Legislatures to be elected are to choose one-third of the members of this Senate, and it is with a view of using this political capital for these diabolical and devilish ends that these vile and slanderous stories of outrages emanate from the brains of political scoundrels and ruffians."

Davis then took his seat and, observing General Butler's scrutiny was continued, wheeled his chair around so as to meet the latter's gaze more defiantly. The two gentlemen then sat stolidly staring, or rather glaring at each other, to the amusement of the galleries and evident disquietude of the Senators around them, who seemed to fear a personal collision might ensue. Stevenson, the colleague of Davis, had meanwhile taken the floor, but the attention of the greater part of the Senate was engrossed by the seemingly bellicose appearance of the gentlemen who still eyed each other with no very approving glances. After a full minute spent in this way, Mr. Davis rose from his chair and addressing Butler was heard to say by Senators near him, "What do you mean by attempting to brow beat me in that way? You are a damned scoundrel, sir," adding after a pause "Yes sir I repeat it you are a damned scoundrel sir."

At this junction Wilson in compliance with a request made to him privately by Casserly came from his seat on the other side of the Chamber and interposed to prevent a continuance of the scene. Davis then resumed his seat and Buckalew after looking in another direction for a few moments rose and went over to the Republican side and shortly after left the Chamber.

It is reported that when addressed by Davis, Butler replied, "I don't know you sir. I don't care for you, and I don't want to talk to you." It is also stated that prior to this occurrence, and while Davis was delivering his speech, Senator Bayard sitting near to him, suggested to him to free himself from the annoyance of Butler's scrutiny by an appeal to the Vice-President, but Davis replied he did not need protection of the Senate but would take care of himself.

COLORED REJOICINGS.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The colored people of this city celebrated the anniversary of the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment to the National Constitution in an imposing and attractive manner. The procession of colored military companies, civic associations, &c., was very creditable. After going over the route in procession, they repaired to Farwell Hall, where music, addresses and religious exercises were continued for two hours. This evening there was an entertainment under the auspices of the Odd Fellows, at which addresses were made by a number of colored orators.

CROP PROSPECTS.

The Pinckleyville, Perry county, (Illinois) Banner, says that never perhaps in the history of the country were prospects of the wheat crop so splendid at this season throughout Central Illinois, as now in Perry county. Every field promises a large yield. There is no exception to this. Wheat growers predict the earliest year known since Illinois was settled.

SUICIDE.

Philip King, a farmer living near Omaha, Missouri, committed suicide on Tuesday morning last, by cutting his throat with a razor.

DROWNING OF AN ACTOR.

On Tuesday afternoon Messrs. Roebeck, Harting, and Galle left Davenport, and went to Rockingham, where they got out a skiff for the purpose of a ride on the Mississippi River. They had not got far from the shore when the skiff was capsized, and Roebeck was drowned. The other two barely escaped. Roebeck was an actor in the German Theatre at Davenport.

HUNG HIMSELF.

In Wisconsin State Prison at Waupun on Monday night, Peter Graham, an inmate, committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell. He was sent to prison two years ago for cutting the throats of two children in Racine county during the temporary absence of their parents.

BOSTON.

THE CONSTABULARY AND LIQUOR SELLING.

BOSTON, March 30.—Damaging testimony developed before the Legislative Committee, investigating bribery charges against the State Constabulary, led to a renewal of liquor seizures on a more extensive scale than heretofore. This afternoon $15,000 worth of liquors were seized in the store of Ralph Smith, Exchange street, and ten thousand from Martin & Davis, Commercial street. Davis, of the latter firm, testified before the committee yesterday that the firm had paid ten dollars monthly to one of the State constables, and various sums to other of the force during the last few years.

CHARLESTON.

Important Action.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 30.—The Chamber of Commerce held a special meeting this evening and resolved to resist by all legal means the payment of all bonds heretofore issued without legal sanction, or those that may hereafter be issued, and to warn all persons not to receive them, and call upon the tax-payers to meet in Convention at Columbia on May 9th to consider the subject and ask the Governor to give official co-operation in the investigation of accounts of Comptrollers and State Agents.

IMPORTANT SUIT.

Mrs. Mary T. Jordan, daughter of Commodore Bainbridge, has brought suit against Duncan, Sherman & Co., and the National City Bank, to recover, with accrued interest and dividends, $20,000 in canal stock, a legacy from her father, which had been pledged to the firms named by the trustees of her estate and subsequently sold, they failing to repay the loans. Judge Blatchford reserved decision.

ASKING FOR AN INJUNCTION AGAINST ERIE.

In the case of Heath and Raphael against the Erie Railway Company and others, the plaintiffs made a motion in the United States District Court this afternoon for an injunction to restrain Erie from issuing new stock or convertible bonds pending the decision of the Court in various Erie cases. The Court took the papers and reserved decision.

AN UNHEALTHY SANITARIAN.

The Brooklyn authorities have discovered that officer O'Keefe, of the Sanitary Squad, has been selling at auction and giving away among the poor large quantities of clothing, bedding, &c., infected with small-pox, and which he was ordered to destroy. The discovery produced a great sensation in parts of the city in which the disease still prevails.

Stewart.

A. T. Stewart makes a daily tour through his retail concern, which requires from one to two hours, after which he goes to the down-town warehouse. His entrance is an unobstrusive manner, and the clerks take no more notice of him than of any wayfarer. Of the crowds that are shopping, not one out of a hundred knows who that quiet man may be. Mr. Stewart walks quietly through the departments, and it is understood that nobody is to speak to him except the managers. He notices every change that may have occurred since yesterday. At one glance he takes in the character of the stock and the chances of sale. He speaks a few words to the manager of one department and passes to the next. The condition of the vast concern, with its twenty cashiers, its five hundred clerks, its stock of two millions, and its demands and dangers, is at once understood and provided for.—[New York Letter.

A Single Rail Tramway.

An English inventor proposes to construct a single line tramway for the conveyance of goods and minerals through rough and hilly districts where there are no regular roads, in the following manner. The rails are to be composed of iron bars, bolted down upon a continuous wooden sleeper. The vehicle is to have one, two, or more wheels behind one another, with flanged tires so as to keep the vehicle on the track. From each side of the frame he proposes to have one or more beams, or, more properly speaking, yokes, to which the draft animals are to be secured. The yokes preferably pass over the animals' backs to prevent the vehicle toppling over; by this means should one of the animals stumble, and bring his side of the vehicle down, he is brought on his feet again by the counterpoise or weight of the animal on the opposite side.

The Selma Times says that a genuine white shad was caught in a net last Sunday morning in the Alabama river six miles above Selma. This bit of grapevine had been used for a long time as a cane, and for years, which no one in the family could number, had been lying about the house.

GENERAL FLEURY, Louis Napoleon's intimate friend, is said to have suffered more severely by the collapse of the sham empire than any other leading Bonapartist. He was at St. Petersburg at the time when the war broke out, and was unable to sell his property in and around Paris during the brief interval between the battle of Wœrth and the capitulation of Sedan. His property in the city was seized by his creditors, and his magnificent suburban villa was destroyed during the siege. The General is now left almost penniless in a foreign city. Fleury, Morny and Rouher were the three pillars of the empire, who were interested in the Jecker bonds, and who did more than anybody else to bring about the Mexican expedition.

CONSUMPTION.

Its Cure and its Preventive.

BY J. H. SCHENCK, M.D.

Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure. Those near and dear to family and friends are sleeping the dreamless slumber into which, had they calmly adopted and availed themselves of his wonderfully efficacious medicines, they would not have fallen.

Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that wherever sufficient vitality remains, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthful vigor.

In this statement there is nothing presumptuous. To the faith of the invalid is made no representation that is not a thousand times substantiated by living and visible works. The theory of the cure by Dr. Schenck's medicines is as simple as it is unfailing. Its philosophy requires no argument. It is self-assuring, self-convincing.

The Sea-weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are the first two weapons with which the citadel of the malady is assailed. Two-thirds of the cases of consumption originate in dyspepsia and a functionary disordered liver. With this condition the bronchial tubes "sympathize" with the stomach. They respond to the morbification of the liver. Here then comes the culminating result, and the setting in, with all its distressing symptoms of

CONSUMPTION.

The Mandrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's noblest gifts—the Podophillum Peltatum. They possess all the blood-searching, alterative properties of calomel, but, unlike calomel, they

"LEAVE NO STING BEHIND."

The work of cure is now beginning. The vitiated and mucous deposits in the bowels and the alimentary canal are ejected. The liver, like a clock, is wound up. It arouses from its torpidity. The stomach acts responsively, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting, at last,

A SUPPLY OF GOOD BLOOD.

The Sea-weed Tonic, in conjunction with the Pills, permeates and assimilates with the food. Chylification is now progressing without its previous tortures. Digestion becomes painless, and the cure is seen to be at hand. There is no more flatulence, no exacerbation of the stomach. An appetite sets in.

Now comes the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet given by an indulgent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup comes in to perform its functions and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once upon its work. Nature can not be cheated. It collects and ripens the impaired and diseased portions of the lungs. In the form of gatherings, it prepares them for expectoration, and lo! in a very short time the malady is vanquished, the rotten throne that it occupied is renovated and made new, and the patient, in all the dignity of regained vigor, steps forth to enjoy the manhood or womanhood that was GIVEN UP AS LOST.

The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased, but it must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this section of the country, in the fall and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose their patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, and yet, because they are in the house they must not sit down quiet; they must walk about the room as much and as fast as the strength will bear, to get up a good circulation of the blood. The patients must keep in good spirits—be determined to get well. This has a great deal to do with the appetite, and is the great point to gain.

To despair of cure after such evidence of its possibility in the worst cases, and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal statement to the Faculty of his own cure was in these modest words:

"Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption; confined to my bed, and at one time my physicians thought that I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man catching at straws, I heard of and obtained the preparations which I now offer to the public, and they made a perfect cure of me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrate my whole system. They soon ripened the matter in my lungs, and I would spit up more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time.

"As soon as that began to subside, my cough, fever, pains and night sweats all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty that I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and have grown in flesh ever since.

"I was weighed shortly after my recovery," added the Doctor, "then looking like a mere skeleton; my weight was only ninety-seven pounds; my present weight is two hundred and twenty-five (225) pounds, and for years I have enjoyed uninterrupted health."

Dr. Schenck has discontinued his professional visits to New York and Boston. He or his son, Dr. J. H. Schenck, Jr., still continue to see patients at their office No. 15 North Sixth street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged $5. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not.

The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the intelligence even of a child. Follow these directions, and kind Nature will do the rest, excepting that in some cases the Mandrake Pills are to be taken in increased doses; the three medicines need no other accompaniments than the ample instructions that accompany them. First create appetite. Of returning health hunger is the most welcome symptom. When it comes, as it will come, let the despairing at once be of good cheer. Good blood at once follows, the cough loosens, the night sweat is abated. In a short time both of these morbid symptoms are gone for ever.

Dr. Schenck's medicines are constantly kept in tens of thousands of families. As a laxative or purgative the Mandrake Pills are a standard preparation; while the Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure of coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylacteric against consumption in any of its forms.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea-weed Tonic $1.50 a bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and dealers. mh31:p3

GOLD closed in New York on yesterday at 110⅞@110⅞.

VICTORIEN SARDON, the dramatist, is in Cannes. We are glad he has been preserved.

AMID THE CONTRADICTORY RUMORS that reach us from France, comes one, indicating the restoration of the Empire. That such an event should take place, will, we think, not be astounding to anybody, but will, in fact, be the end that many have expected.

IN THE VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE, the House Committee on Bribery, have recommended the expulsion of two members. The grounds for this recommendation have not yet been published, but a good guess can be made from the fact that both the members are colored.

GOVERNOR BUTLER, of Nebraska, has gained a reprieve of sixty days. It is strongly intimated that this delay has been granted for the purpose of allowing the Governor to resign, and end matters finally. Otherwise, it is said, sufficient evidence will be produced to convict him beyond all question.

NORTH CAROLINA having tasted of Impeachment is growing gluttonous. Articles of Impeachment have been offered against Judge Jones, of the Second Judicial District. The charge is drunkenness and disgraceful conduct. The charges are said to have been gotten up irrespective of party.

AS USUAL, the bill in the English House of Lords legalizing the marriage of a man with his deceased wife's sister has been defeated. We say as usual, because it has been before the House of Lords over and over again, and we suppose its present defeat will not prevent it being brought up again at the next session.

THE MICHIGAN SENATE has passed a bill to the effect that all public officers guilty of voluntary drunkenness, shall be subject to removal for such offence. Under this act Michigan officials can get drunk involuntarily, just as much as they please. As this is the way the "drunk" generally comes, the act does not seem to meet the case.

IF the Democratic caucus lately held in Washington bears any fruit, we may look for a long address to the people acknowledging the existence of the Ku Klux organization, but attributing it solely to the local governments, and as not requiring any such measures as have been proposed by the Republican party. Having, however, so long denied that any such organization existed, we very much doubt whether Democracy will have the heart and courage to make the proposed confession.

THE Mobile Register does not propose that the Northern Democracy shall shirk the issue in 1872. It states in plain language that there is no reason why the question of reconstruction should not be a vital issue in 1872. It says:

The Thirteenth Amendment is a legitimate corrollary of the war, because it only ratified what the States had separately done, to wit: abolish slavery. That is res adjudicata in the Democratic party, and no State, and very few individuals would restore it. But the reconstruction amendments and laws stand upon a different footing. And what does the Southern Democracy demand as to them? Nothing more than the National Democracy has already conceded in the New York Convention of 1868, when, in its platform, it declared these reconstruction measures "unconstitutional, revolutionary, null and void."

This is just what defeated the Democratic party in 1868, through Seymour and Blair, and it will defeat it in 1872, because these doctrines will be forced on the Convention by the Southern Democrats in that Convention. The only hope in the future for the Democracy is to cut loose entirely from such doctrines, and then, in time, it may gain the confidence of the people.

TWO YEARS ago the Legislature of Pennsylvania, following the example of other States, organized a Board of Public Charities. The Commissioners appointed were all men of high personal characters. Unfortunately disagreement was developed among them, one taking a decided stand against all the others, and urging the Legislature to abrogate the Board as altogether useless. A bill has been introduced into the House for this purpose. We trust this bill will fail. The Board has great possibilities of usefulness in it, as has been abundantly demonstrated in other Commonwealths. If mistakes were made in selecting persons to serve as Commissioners, let the improper individuals be requested to resign, and if they fail to comply, let them be removed, and suitable individuals be substituted. But do not let a wise beginning totally miscarry because the Board happened to be so constituted that it cannot harmonize.

It is understood that four members of the Board have uniformly acted in agreement, and are ready to make room for successors upon an intimation from the Governor that he desires their resignation.

THE CONSOLIDATED RAILROADS.

Some year or two ago, when the "Pennsylvania Company" was chartered by the State Legislature, the quidnuncs pretended they saw in it the inception of some grand scheme for the absorption, by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, of all the railroads in the country, and the imposition of onerous and oppressive burdens on the traveling and commercial public. Recent developments have shown, after all the philosophising of the race of suspicionists, that there was no foundation for their evil surmisings, and that the Pennsylvania Company was chartered for the legitimate purpose of investing the Pennsylvania Railroad Company with power to create a subordinate organization for the management of all its leased interests west of Pittsburgh. That corporation, which has done so much for the development of the internal resources of our State, the promotion of its general interests, the elevation of Pennsylvania to the proud position she now occupies as chief among her sister Commonwealths in the ownership of railroads, and the accommodation of the traveling public, controls lines, amounting in the aggregate to four thousand miles. It will be apparent to every one, who will give the subject the most superficial reflection, that a road of such great length, with so many divergent lines, could not be conducted so well by one general management, located at its extreme eastern terminus, although, in this respect, neither the stockholders nor the public have ever had any occasion to complain. The superior management of the Pennsylvania Railroad has commanded the admiration of the whole country as well as tourists and the most distinguished personages from other lands.

With the view of relieving somewhat the central organization at Philadelphia of a burden that was every day becoming more oppressive, and making a division of the labor incident to the extended and growing interests of the corporation, as well as securing the greatest possible safety and success in the management, the Pennsylvania Company has been organized, and under its control and supervision will be placed all the roads west of Pittsburgh, that are owned and operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which, in the aggregate, amount to some twenty-five hundred miles. This is the simple, and we should say commendable, object had in view in the organization of the Pennsylvania Company, around which so much mystery has been thrown by some imaginative individuals, and the specific purposes of which seem not to be generally understood.

The capital stock of the Pennsylvania Company amounts to twelve millions of dollars. Of this eight millions are preferred, and four common stock, all of which is held by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. We do not know that it is the intention to dispose of any of the stock. The understanding is, we believe, that the stock, which about covers the interest they have in the Western lines, will be held permanently by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Should they deem it expedient to do so, they may, from time to time, sell the common stock at its par value, but not below it. We have no doubt that, in a few years, if they should see fit to throw a portion or the whole of it on the market, it will command a heavy premium.

The management of the Pennsylvania Company has been placed in the hands of a Board of Directors, whose names are as follows: Hon. Thomas A. Scott, William Thaw Esq., J. N. McCullough Esq., H. H. Houston Esq., George B. Roberts Esq., and Hon. T. L. Jewett. The Board is now duly organized and will assume the supervision of the various lines placed under its control on the first day of April.

The organization of this new company, and the location of its central office in Pittsburgh will prove highly advantageous to our city, and give it an importance as a grand railway centre, to which it is duly entitled. About one hundred and fifty passenger trains arrive at and depart from Pittsburgh and Allegheny every day. How many departures and arrivals of freight trains there are, we are not prepared to say, but the number must be large. This, then, is the very point at which the central office of the new organization should be located, and much wisdom has been shown in selecting it. The advantages resulting to our city from the selection must be great. Here most of the general officers of the western lines will be located, and everything requiring adjustment can receive it at once, without any of those delays which sometimes prove so annoying and inconvenient to business men. The earnings of the different roads will all find their way here, and Pittsburgh will become a grand receiving and disbursing centre. There will be no fluctuation of rates for freight and passage, arising from the rivalry of competing lines, and they will be reduced to the lowest possible figure consistent with a proper maintenance of the roads and their safe and successful management.

No outlay of money will be spared in putting and keeping the lines in the best possible and safest condition. The improvements inaugurated, some time since, on the Pan Handle branch will be pushed forward vigorously until every necessary facility for the accommodation of its greatly increasing business will be afforded. We know the men well who are at the head of the enterprise, and their names are a guarantee that nothing will be left undone that will secure the best accommodation and greatest safety to the patrons of the lines placed under their control, and the prosperity of the corporation whose interest have been committed to their custody. We are well convinced that on no other terms would they assume the supervision of the work than that the necessary means for its successful accomplishment will be placed at their disposal.

Hon. Thomas A. Scott, President of the Company, has achieved an enviable and well-earned celebrity, both in this country and Europe, as one of the greatest railroad men of the age. Some years ago he set out with a surveying party to assist in locating a part of the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, his principal object being to take recreation in the country during the summer months, intending to return to business in Philadelphia in the Fall. He was stricken down, however, by sickness, which prevented him from carrying out his original intention, and his lot was cast in with the fortunes of that great corporation, of which, in addition to many other responsible positions in other organizations, he is the efficient and honored Vice President. Very small matters sometimes become the turning points in some mens' history, and we think that no one who is interested in the development of the resources of Pennsylvania and the States west of it, will regret the circumstance that linked him permanently to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. With such a head, the new organization cannot fail to give satisfaction.

William Thaw, Esq., our own townsman, born and brought up here, is the Vice President of the Pennsylvania Company. He has been engaged in the forwarding business during the greater part of his life, and we do not know of any man in our city who is better adapted to the position. He is of quick but sound judgment, and has a capacity for working out details which few men possess. It was no doubt, his extensive experience in the transportation of freight, and superior business qualifications which caused the Pennsylvania Company to elevate him to the Vice Presidency, a position which we are of opinion he reluctantly accepts, but the duties of which he will discharge nevertheless with fidelity and success. In the place, where he is so well and favorably known as the possessor of eminent civic and commercial virtues, it is unnecessary for us to say more.

J. N. McCullough, Esq., has been appointed General Manager of the Company, and every business and railroad man will say, wherever he is known, that no better selection for this position could have been made. Indeed, it may be questioned whether another could be found that would be able to discharge its intricate duties as well as Mr. McCullough. Prior to his entrance on his official career as a railroad manager he was a member of the private Banking House of McIntosh, McCullough & Co., Wellsville, Ohio, in connection with which he distinguished himself as an able and astute financier. About fourteen or fifteen years ago, if our memory is not at fault, he had a large contract on the River Division of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad. The energy and skill which he displayed in constructing that most difficult Division attracted the admiring attention of the stockholders of the corporation, who had also witnessed his shrewdness in monetary negotiations, and they soon marked him out as the only fit and proper person to rescue their road from difficulties and carry on successfully its operations. Accordingly, he was elected, in 1858, to the Presidency of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad. The time was most unpropitious. The country was reeling and staggering from the effects of the monetary and commercial convulsions of 1857. Railroad interests generally throughout the country were engulphed in the monetary maelstrom, and were at the lowest ebb tide. But he proved himself equal to the herculean task. He rescued the road from all its embarrassments, and succeeded in bringing it up to its present prosperous condition, so that now it ranks among the first, in every respect, in the country. He was appointed General Superintendent of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway in 1864, and the present excellent condition of that great thoroughfare is another monument to his efficiency as a skillful and accomplished railroad man. When that road was leased by the Pennsylvania Railroad in July 1869, he was appointed General Manager. And now when the Pennsylvania Railroad Company have determined to place all their western lines under the control of a separate Directory, they have seen fit to appoint him General Manager, and every one who is interested in railroad traffic will heartily endorse the appointment. He possesses all the qualifications necessary for the arduous and responsible position. He combines financial skill with administrative ability of the highest order, and is well acquainted with all the minute details of railroading from the staking of a line to the completion of its superstructure, and the safe and rapid movement of trains. If success is within the achievement of human ability, he will not fail to secure it. These appointments, coming in such rapid succession from a corporation like the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, are the highest attestation that could be given of his merits, and fitness for the profession to which he has devoted his life.

We are inclined to believe that there was no foundation for the report that was telegraphed over the country last Monday, that most of the old employes on the lines, now about to pass under the control of the Pennsylvania Company, will be removed. We venture to say that no person will be removed who is competent. The general officers will not sacrifice any man for the purpose of making room for friends. That is not their wont. The only question with them will be, is he competent? and if proved to be so, his position is secure. No changes nor appointments have as yet been made, unless they have taken place within the past twenty-four hours, and none will be made hurriedly.

We think however, that we can predict one appointment that will be made. There is no doubt that F. R. Myers, Esq., will be appointed General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the consolidated lines. He is one of the best general ticket agents in the country, and we know of no one who is better qualified for the position, to which he will, in all probability, be called. It will require no little skill, patience and judgment to arrange the minute and general details of the ticket and passenger department of the consolidated lines, and Mr. Myers possesses them all. He is besides a gentleman who stands high in the estimation of the public, and his appointment, when made, will give universal satisfaction. We rather incline to the belief that the two suites of rooms on the second floor of the building of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway, on Seventh avenue, which are now being handsomely refitted, are for his accommodation. If so, he will be most heartily welcomed back to Pittsburgh.

We have seen fit to pen the above remarks for the satisfaction of the public, inasmuch as there was much misunderstanding abroad as to the nature and objects of the Pennsylvania Company.

SENSIBLE SUGGESTIONS.

An intelligent but exceedingly modest correspondent sends us the following communication, directing public attention to the alarming increase of marriages between those of kindred blood. The subject is one worthy attention, more especially since it is attracting so much debate in other countries. Our correspondent writes:

BUTLER, PA., March 29, 1871.

EDITORS GAZETTE—I have long looked for some one to endeavor to excite public interest on a subject which, I think, is of vital importance. Not wishing to appear in print myself I desire to call your attention to it, and, if you are in sympathy with me on the subject, you can call editorial notice to it. I refer to the intermarriage between relatives, for instance, first cousins. Reports published by the Superintendents of several western Insane Asylums, (of the States of Ohio and Indiana I think) prove that nearly two-thirds of the inmates of said institutions are the offspring of parents who are first cousins. It is a noted fact that the children of parents who are related to each other are in four cases out of six, sufferers either in body or mind, or both. While the reports of which I speak show some of the fearful consequences of such unions, they by no means give us an adequate idea of the same. How many imbeciles and cripples, the suffering offspring of incestuous parents, are there of whom the world never hears? If in any one State, two-thirds of the inmates of the Insane Asylums are the offspring of incestuous unions, there may be in that same Commonwealth hundreds who suffer less from the same cause. Yea, we can say more: Two-fifths of the children whose father and mother are first cousins, are actually insane!

In Germany marriages within the fifth generation of consanguinity are strictly prohibited, and where is there a hardier race on earth than the Germans?

Now, our State Legislature has power to regulate these matters, and I wish you would call the attention of the people to it in an editorial. Perhaps there is little hope that any wholesome legislation can be effected, but no harm could be done by calling the people's attention to it. The statistics to which I referred were published in a Philadelphia paper in the fall of 1869, and if I can find them I will send them to you.

Not wishing to make myself conspicuous I will not sign my name this time.

OUR FOREIGN LETTER.

[Correspondence of Pittsburgh Gazette.]

DRESDEN, SAXONY, March 8, 1870.

The French National Assembly have ratified the German terms of peace, and tranquility has again returned to Europe. The news will be a thing of the past long before this reaches you. The event will be ever memorable to both France and Germany the former writhing under the yoke of defeat has been compelled to relinquish her maiden fortress, pay an extraordinary indemnity, and bear the bitter pang of seeing the conquerors march through the streets of her capital. For Germany the war has been a grand achievement, they have vanquished a mighty nation; have placed themselves as one of the first powers of Europe, and now rejoice in a united Fatherland and an Emperor King. The terrible drama of the past six months has been one long and continued scene of bloody strife. It has closed, and we can now wish that war would disappear from the world's stage forever and be denounced by civilization as unholy. How happy all appeared as they read the little telegram—which had been carried throughout the city with great rapidity, announcing the return of peace. How beautifull looked the streets and avenues full of the many colored flags of the different German States fluttering in the breeze of that balmy spring day. In seemed like some grand gala-day and every one had experienced a new found joy which was visible on almost every countenance. I will proceed to tell you of the rejoicings in Dresden, and of the official peace festival held a few days ago.

THE TROPHIES OF WAR.

On the 2d of this month a procession of artillery was arranged, which exhibited the captured cannon of the war and was inspected by the King. The line formed in the morning and immediately proceeded to the palace. His Majesty appeared on the front balcony, and not generally given to public speaking merely paid his respects to the line, as it passed by him, from time to time, and looking inquiringly at the mitrailleuses and other trophies which composed the train. From here they were taken to the Zwinger and placed on exhibition. The gates had been guarded to allow the procession to march in first. After being opened the public rushed in as if they were going to see some grand show never before witnessed—as in fact the mitrailleuse did prove to many—in a short time each piece was surrounded and the terrors of modern warfare examined well. The boys were on top of them and under them and worked the wheels and lifted the plates to show how it was done as if perfect adepts at the business. These cannons are mostly from Paris and Strasburg—one or two immense guns from the latter place.

Berlin has the largest cannon captured, and Dresden has the next in size. This ordnance will remain in the place above mentioned, for some time, while others are placed for public inspection, at different points in the city.

All are made of brass or bronze and seem to be gotten up in costly style; on the top appears the name of each, and immediately below a large initial "N," nicely engraved.

STUDENTS TURN OUT.

The students wishing to do their share in the peace rejoicings had a grand torch light procession, made up principally of the members of the Dresden Polytechnic Institute, and various other academies, together with some curiously dressed Knights of the olden time. The line was headed by corps men from the Institute, on horse back, these young gentlemen were attired in velvet jackets, jaunty little caps, and the usual jack boots, presenting altogether quite an attractive appearance. Two martial bands accompanied them, and kept up stirring music the whole evening. They first marched to the Castle and were there received by the King. A Committee of the students waited upon His Majesty and tendered their congratulations on the return of peace, and hopes for a continued prosperity to the country. After some song singing, they resumed the march and having done the city pretty well, returned to their place of formation at a late hour, when all threw their torches in one heap and burned them singing Gaudeamus igitur as they passed around the fire.

THE PEACE FESTIVAL.

The day and evening selected for the official peace festival were all that could be desired. It was not ordered till the 5th inst., owing to the great amount of work attending the preparations for an illumination. The city by this time had become one galaxy of beauty and grandeur; most every house had its flag or was covered with wreaths of pine, and garlands stretched across the streets bearing flowers of rarest beauty. The store windows displayed their goods in appropriate colors, or had small statues and monuments with mottoes on them of a patriotic character. The railroads brought thousands of strangers into the city continually, and by midday it was almost impossible to effect a passage through the thoroughfares. A large statue of "Germania" had been temporarily placed in Alt Markt, and around the platform were arranged all the flags and banners of the Trades' Unions. A number of singing societies assembled about twelve o'clock, and in half an hour the whole square was one living mass. A regular order of exercises was gone through with—I will not note them in full—the Mayor of the city made a short speech and after other performances he called upon the people to sing their national anthem and, immediately full 20,000 voices swelled together in the Wacht am Rhein. It was truly a grand sight and one not soon to be forgotten. At the side of Germania, whose white form towered high in the air, stood the American flag, for what particular purpose it was placed there I am unable to determine, unless the Goddess was manifesting her friendship towards the country where so many of her sons had found happy homes, and were so well cared for by its people; be that as it may, it was with a high degree of pleasure that I looked upon the pretty star spangled banner, in the position it occupied on that eventful occasion. Right next to it was draped the black, white and red of the North German Confederation.

DRESDEN ILLUMINATED.

The joy and confusion of the day were but a prelude to what the evening brought forth. As soon as darkness set in the whole city became one glaring sea of light, and the streets shone forth with the brightness of day. The public buildings were covered with gas fixtures of the most expensive description, and it appeared as if each person had tried to eclipse his neighbor in point of attraction. The City Hall and Royal Palace contained sheets of fire, showing the arms of Saxony and Prussia, large initials of the King and Princes, and stars of great size and dazzling brilliancy over the gateways, all displaying the architecture of the buildings in a pleasing manner. Large fires in urns before the Japanese Palace lighted up that majestic structure, while similar fires kept constantly burning in front of the old gallery, threw a ruddy glare on its crumbling pillars, and made visible the holes and fissures created during the wars and revolution of long ago. On the old stone bridge were placed monuments, containing transparencies telling of the chief battles and capitulations of the recent war. A very pretty sight was an Elbe steamer anchored in the middle of the river, with rows of variously colored lights extending fore and aft, and the masts and chimneys hung with tiny jets and miniature lanterns.

From the shore the whole outline of a vessel could be distinguished, and it appeared like a sort of phantom ship in the water. During the evening part of the royal family rode out to see the beauties of the city. A number of Uhlans mounted, led the procession, and then came His Majesty, King John, in his open carriage, with the Crown Princess at his side, the Princess George and her family following them. Next came the Maids of Honor and various other attaches of the palace, all riding in court equipages, and the rear was brought up by Germans, English and Americans. Both Princesses were prettily attired and their winning smiles and bows delivered on all sides, called forth loud cheers from the populace. The waving of flags and handkerchiefs marked the evening throughout. As I said before, the streets were almost impassable, but much trouble was spared by compelling everyone to go to the right or left, and no vehicles were permitted to make their appearance excepting those following the royal procession. I was much pleased, too, with the good order and decorum manifested everywhere—no drunkenness whatever was observable—the firemen were out in case of danger, and the efficient gensdarme stood at the intersections of streets to keep the people continually moving. I must admit we have much to learn from the Germans at displays of this kind. The French prisoners were politely requested not to appear in crowds during the evening, and this was complied with, some few were visible, but they were permitted to walk around very peaceably, and no contumely was offered them at any time.

Dresden has rejoiced in a praisworthy manner, and all seemed happy to celebrate the declaration of peace. The grand carnival which proved such a success, closed with the approaching hour of midnight, and in a short time the noisy city, which had worn the aspect of midday, was wrapt in the darkness of night, and no light was visible, save that of the guard away up in the tower of the old Saxon castle.

J. V. H.

The New French Patriots.

On the 27th ult., the same day on which a police agent was so cruelly murdered in Paris, the Place de la Bastile was infested with a band of infuriated rabble. A chef de bataillon of Zouaves was riding past, when several National Guards commanded him to salute the Column of Liberty. "I take orders from no one," he replied in a firm voice, "and I will not uncover my head, since you make pretensions to force me to do so." He was immediately surrounded, dragged from his horse, and belabored with blows and kicks by the raging crowd. With a desperate effort he succeeded in escaping into the Cafe Pilon, and hiding himself from his pursuers. Captain Ducos, of the same regiment, who had witnessed this scene, hastened to the help of his superior officer, but was received by the rioters with cries of "Coward! Capitulard!" "I a capitulard!" exclaimed the brave officer, with indignation, "I have four wounds to show, two of which are in my left shoulder." With a refined cruelty the mob struck the wounded officer repeatedly on the wounded shoulder, and it was only by the bold and menacing attitude he assumed that he escaped out of their hands.

A WEDDING was appointed to take place last Wednesday at Port Jefferson, Long Island, but on the wedding eve the groom was either drowned or murdered. The bride is overwhelmed with grief. The body of the groom has not been recovered.

MYSTERIOUS.

An Unclaimed Trunk in Chicago.

The Chicago Tribune says: Yesterday afternoon, as the tugboat S. V. R. Watson was starting out of Magazine Slip, east of South Halsted Street Bridge, two of the deck-hands observed a portion of a man floating in the river. The Captain of the boat called out to Policeman O'Meara, who was standing on the bridge, and he went to the bank, and assisted the deck-hands in hauling the remains to the shore. O'Meara repaired to the South Branch Sub-Station and reported the fact, and another officer returned with him to the place. The two took the body out of the water, and laid it on a plank. There was no head upon the body, and the legs were wanting. The front of the neck looked as if it had been cut with a knife, and that portion near the spinal column, although somewhat jagged, had evidently been chopped off with a cleaver or some sharp instrument. The lower portion of the body and the legs had been cut off with the same instrument, as the front part was cut clean, and the back part, near the spinal column, rough. Upon lifting up the right arm some blood was observed, and an examination resulted in finding a wound, probably a stab, about an inch and a quarter long. The arm was broken in two places above the elbow, but the skin was not bruised. From the appearance of the hands, the man had been a worker in salt. This was the opinion of two German physicians, one of whom, however, thought the remains had been in the water five months, and the other only five days.

The finding of the mutilated remains brought to the place a large number of people, each of whom had a theory as to the manner in which the man met his death. The tug-boat captain maintained that the wheel of his boat had struck the body and cut it up, as he had noticed that the wheel did not work free when he started. The physicians thought that, from the appearance of the trunk, this was impossible. They also exploded a theory that some medical students had thrown the cadaver into the river, by averring that no student would cut a body in that way. The wife of a missing man was sent for, but she was confident the remains were not those of her husband.

The Coroner made his appearance about half-past four o'clock. He summoned a jury who, after viewing the body, adjourned to a saloon, where an inquest was held. The evidence elicited was very indefinite, and the jury returned a verdict that death resulted from some unknown cause. The remains were sent to the dead-house, but they will probably never be recognized. The doctors were of the opinion that deceased was a full grown man, and about 30 years of age. If he had been a worker in salt, he was most probably employed in some packing house. Many persons took this view of the case, and were confident that the man had been engaged in a fight with packing house employes, was killed, chopped up with a cleaver, and thrown into the river.

THE Cincinnati Commercial having done its little best to destroy the Republican party, and not being satisfied with the results of its efforts, now devotes a column and a half to an endeavor to prove that Washington, besides being the father of his country, was the father of an illegitimate son called Colonel Posey, who was the first Territorial Governor of Indiana.

THE PUREST AND SAFEST.

The efficacy of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters as a specific for recruiting the enfeebled body and cheering the desponding mind, has passed into a proverb. In the United States, where this marvelous tonic has borne down all opposition, and eclipsed all rivalry, the demand for it has annually increased in a heavier and heavier ratio for years, until, at last, the regular sales of this preparation exceed those of all other stomachics combined. Eminent members of the medical profession and hospital surgeons without number, have candidly admitted that the pharmacopoeia of the faculty contains no prescription that produces such beneficial effects in dyspepsia, general debility and nervous diseases, as Hostetter's Bitters. To use the language of a venerable physician of New York. "The Bitters are the purest stimulant and the safest tonic we have." But the uses of the great vegetable antidote are much more comprehensive than such praise would imply. As a preparatory antidote to epidemic disease, a genial stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic, and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of Hostetter's Bitters. It is the household tonic of the American people, and in all human probability will be so for centuries to come. The magnates of science recognize its merits; and that it is emphatically the medicine of the masses, is proven by its vast and ever increasing sales.

NEW 7-30 GOLD LOAN.
Safe! Profitable! Permanent!
JAY COOKE & CO. offer for sale at Par and Accrued interest the First Mortgage Land Grant Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company.
These bonds are secured, first, by a First Mortgage on the Railroad itself, its rolling stock, and all equipments; second, by a First Mortgage on its entire Land Grant, being more than Twenty-two Thousand Acres of Land to each mile of Road.
The bonds are free from United States Tax; the Principal and interest are payable in Gold—the Principal at the end of Twenty years, and the Interest Semi-annually, at the rate of SEVEN AND THREE-TENTHS PER CENT. per annum.
They are issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000.
The Trustees under the Mortgage are Messrs. Jay Cooke, of Philadelphia, and J. Edgar Thompson, President of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company.
These Northern Pacific 7-30 Bonds will at all times before maturity, be receivable at TEN PER CENT. PREMIUM (or 1.10), in exchange for the Company's lands at their lowest cash price.
In addition to their absolute safety, these Bonds yield an income larger, we believe, than any other first-class security. Persons holding United States 5-20's can, by converting them into Northern Pacifics, increase their yearly income one-third and still have a perfectly reliable investment.
HOW TO GET THEM.—Your nearest Bank or Banker will supply these Bonds in any desired amount, and of any needed denomination. Persons wishing to exchange stocks or other bonds for these, can do so with any of our Agents, who will allow the highest current price for ALL MARKETABLE SECURITIES.
Those living in localities remote from Banks, may send money, or other bonds, directly to us by express, and we will send back Northern Pacific Bonds at our own risk, and without cost to the Investor.
For further information, pamphlets, maps, etc., call on or address the undersigned, or any of the Banks or Bankers employed to sell this Loan.
For sale by the following Agents:
"After thorough investigation we have accepted an Agency for the sale of these popularly approved Bonds, and confidently recommend them to our customers and investors generally."

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated: Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 296 PENN STREET.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

MONEY AND COMMERCE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, March 30, 1871.

The discount market is not working easily this week. The demand for loans has been active and steady, and borrowers have found it difficult at times to supply their wants at once, or upon reasonable rates of interest.

The money pressure at this season of the year has hitherto been of but short duration, and private lenders would be wise to take all acceptable paper at fair rates. A month hence there will be the same class of paper absorbed by the banks at lower figures.

In local stocks there is but little doing, the demand and supply both meagre.

The New York market is fractionally stronger in Government bonds and Gold this afternoon and weaker throughout the Railway list save in one or two instances. Northwesterns are very strong. The Vanderbilt stocks are lower. The rise in Milwaukee and St. Paul has been checked and there is a good deal of doubt over the future course of Ohio and Mississippi. As to Erie, a correspondent says:

"The Smith, Gould, Martin & Co. crowd appear to be selling, and they affirm "that should a Receiver be appointed, he will be the nominee of Fisk and Gould, and therefore they don't care how soon the road goes under or where the stock drops to"—but which is cat and which is meal Wall street cannot tell. Another report says that Fisk and his friends are buying, and advising their friends to do the same quietly, a rush will be made, and the stock be put up 33 per cent above present figures.

"Uncle Daniel is having a rough time of it over his "shorts" in Lake Shore, it is said, and his enemies are indisposed to let up for some time yet. The stock is a fraction weaker under reports that the big bear had covered or borrowed all that was necessary for the present, but it is not heavy.

Robinson Bros., No. 78 Fourth avenue, furnish the following comparative quotations of bonds and stocks, from their latest advices by wire:

NEW YORK, March 30, 1871.

Gold steady with small volume of business; opened 110¾ and closed at 110⅝@110⅞. Loans made at 1 to 2 per cent. Carrying rates 1 per cent. Clearances about $29,000. At the Treasury sale bids amounted to 4,122,000 at prices ranging from 109 51-000@110 16-000; awards of $1,000,000 from 110-10 to 110-26.

Governments opened steady and advanced during the day from ⅛ to ⅜ per cent., with the exception of 10-40s, which were weak. Sixes of 1881 and currency sixes were the strongest and closed firm. The new loan is meeting with decided favor and the noticeable feature in its favor is its early success and the fact that subscriptions are no longer limited to National Banks. Some large private banking houses in this city have taking hold of the work in good earnest.

The stock market was rather weak and feverish early in the day but later became strong and so continued up to the close. Western Union was the principal feature and sold up to 59⅞; next in point of interest was Lake Shore and New York Central. In express stocks small dealings. Money easy at 4 per cent. and a good deal of currency is going to the interior part; and we have good authority for saying the continuation is made up of nearly the same firms and speculators who figured in like movement last December has been formed to lock up money and to-morrow's operations looking to a stringency will begin. To-day, and yesterday large amount of stocks has been sold on account of the combination in the Treasury. It is reasonable to expect that it can be counted for throwing its influence in favor of ease, as stringent money would check subscriptions to the new loan. The Secretary of the Treasury will be in this city to-morrow or the day after so that prompt action if deemed necessary can be had without delay. State securities have been dull and heavy in everything excepting Tennessee old and new, and Virginia bonds which have been strong and active.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, March 30, 1871.

APPLE BUTTER—Quoted 75@80 cts per gallon for prime to choice.

ASHES—The market is almost bare of Soda Ash, and with considerably inquiry sales are being made at an advance; it is not likely, however, that the advance will be sustained any length of time. Pearls unchanged at 9@9¾, and Potash, 7¾.

APPLES—The supply of green apples is almost exhausted and the season is about over. Most of the offerings are in bad condition and are hard to sell at any price. Good sound apples may be quoted at $4@4.50 per bbl.

BEANS—In good supply and light request; may be quoted at $1.50@2 per bushel.

BUTTER—There is a continued good demand for strictly prime and we can report sales at 30@35. Common and medium is dull and neglected.

BEESWAX—Quoted at 28@30 cts.

BROOM CORN—4½@6¾ cts.

CANNED FRUITS—Are in good supply and the demand is light, unusually so for this season of the year; it is thought, however, that there will soon be an improvement, as green apples are about played out, and dried peaches are scarce and high.

CARBON OIL—Standard brands may be quoted at 21½@22—usual advance for small lots. The tendency is downward in sympathy with crude.

CHEESE—Is scarce and firm but unchanged: New York Goshen, 18½@19; Ohio Goshen, 17½@18 cts.

CORNMEAL—Small sales of prime yellow at 85@90cts per bushel.

CANDLES—Quoted at 12 cts for mould, and 19 for star.

CEMENT—Sales Louisville Hydraulic at $2@$2¼, and Calcined Plaster at $4¼ per bbl.

CRANBERRIES—Sales at $12@17 per bbl, according to quality.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches, 10@10½; mixed, 11@12 and halves, 13@14. Apples, 6@8 cts, as to quality. Blackberries, 12@13 cts.

EGGS—With a fair demand and a continued falling off in the receipts, the market is firmer though as yet there is no quotable advance in prices, and we continue to quote at 15@16. There is not one barrel coming in now where there was 3 last week, and the stock in this market is not as large by one half, as it was then. It is well enough to bear in mind, however, that there is no inquiry as yet for shipment, and that prices are as high here relatively as they are in the east.

FEATHERS—We are reported sales of No 1 live geese feathers, to the trade, at 72; may be quoted at 80 in small lots.

FLOUR—Continues quiet and unchanged. The receipts for some weeks past have been unusually light but the supply, nevertheless, has been and is still fully equal to the present requirements. We continue to quote at $6.75@7 for good spring extras; $7.25 for choice Minnesota baker's flour; $6.75@7.00 for red winter wheat; and $7.25@7.50 for white. Rye Flour, small lots, in store, $6.00.

GRAIN—Wheat is weaker, and the mills are asking for concessions; we now quote at $1.40@1.43 for red and $1.50@1.53 for white. This weakness may be attributed mainly to a decline in Philadelphia which has checked shipments from here to that point, and dealers can do fully as well, if not better, now by selling here at our quotations, than by shipping east. The receipts continue meagre, and the supply in this market is by no means large. Oats, steady but unchanged, 55@56 buying, and 57@58 selling—small lots, in store, 60. Corn is steady but unchanged; sales on wharf and track at 70@72—small sales at usual advance. Rye is in steady demand at $1.05 and the receipts continue very light; the demand, however, is not as active as it was some two or three weeks ago. The Barley market is quiet and dull and devoid of anything new or important; we continue to quote at 80@85 for spring and 90@95 for fall.

GROCERIES—The grocery market is steady and moderately active, particularly for Sugars, which are firm but not quotably higher. Coffees, dull with a drooping tendency. Molasses and Syrups unchanged. Foreign Fruits firmer and, within the past few days, Prunes have advanced ¾ of a cent per pound, in the east—there is no advance here, as yet. Following are the ruling quotations:

COFFEE—Fancy Rio, 20; Prime, 19; Good, 18; Fair, 17; Roasting, 16@16½.

SYRUPS AND DRIPS—White Honey, 65; Havemyer & Elders, 72; Silver Drips, 60; Loverings, 63; other grades, 45@55.

SUGARS—Choice New Orleans, 11¾; prime, 10¾ good, 10; fully fair, 10; Porto Rico Sugars 10¼@11¾; Cuba, 10@11; Demarara, 11½@12¾.

REFINED SUGARS—Hard Sugars, 13¾; A Coffee, 12¾; "B," 12¾; Extra C, 12½; C. yellow 12¼.

MOLASSES—New Orleans, choice, 70; prime, 68; good, 65.

TEAS—Fancy Young Hyson, $1 40; Good, $1 10; Fair, $1. Lower grades down to 70cts. G. P. Fancy, $1 50; good, $1 25; fair, $1 10; Imperial Fancy, $1 40; good, $1 25; fair, $1; Oolong fancy, $1 25; good, 80cts; fair, 60@70c; Souchong fancy, $1 20; good, 90c; fair, 70@80c, Japan Fancy, $1; good, 90c; fair, 75c.

RICE—Choice Carolina, 9¾c; prime, 9c; good, 8¾c.

SPICES—Grain Pepper, 21c. Pimento, 17c. Cloves, 20c. Cassia, 55c.

FOREIGN FRUITS—Currants, 11¾@12 cents. Prunes, 12¾c. Valencia Raisins, 15c. Layer Raisins, $3,25 per box.

HAY—Is being sold from country wagons at $12@18. Baled, on wharf, $14@16.

HONEY—Continues dull and cannot be quoted above 25@30 cts.

HOMINY—$5,00@5,50 per bbl; Pearl, $6,00@6,25.

HUSKS—Quoted at 2¾@2¾ cts.

HIDES—Green salted (all weights) 10¾@11¾; green butchers (cow and steer) 7@8; green salted kip 14@16; do calf, 16@18 Dry.

LIME—Sales of Cleveland at $2,25 per bbl and eastern at $1,75.

MAPLE SYRUP—May be quoted at $1,70@1,75 in gallon jugs.

MILL FEED—We can report an improved demand but there is no change in prices; Middlings, $1,60@1,30; Bran, $1,30@1,40; Seconds, $1,30@1,50, that is in a jobbing way. Round lots, of course, will not bring these prices.

ONIONS—Dull and drooping and the great bulk of the offerings are in bad condition.

OILS—No 1 Lard Oil quoted at $1,08@1,10, and Linseed at 95@96.

PROVISIONS—Plain shoulders, 9@9¼; Sugar Cured do, 10¾; Ribbed Sides, 11¾; Clear Sides, 12¾; Sugar Cured Hams, 15¾. Lard, 12¾ in tcs and 13¾ in buckets and kegs. Country lard, 11@12c. Dried Beef, 19.

PEANUTS—8¾@9 cts.

POTATOES—Are coming in more freely and the market is less active though as yet there has been no actual decline in prices. We continue to quote at $1,20@1,30 per bushel, the outside figure for prime Lake Shore Peach Blows. Prime Jersey Sweets, $5 per bbl.

SEEDS—Clover Seed is dull and drooping; we quote at $7—$7,2 for small lots. Timothy Seed, $6,50@6,75. Flaxseed, $2,18@2,20.

SOAPS—Rosin, 3¾@5 cts; Chemical Olive, 7¾; Crampton's, 10; Wax, 8; Babbitts, 11; Woman's Friend, 9¾; Dobbins, 14¾; Kitchen Crystal, 10; Colgate's Palm, $4,75.

SUMAC—Sales Tennessee Sumac at 4¾ cts.

TALLOW—Is dull and cannot be fairly quoted above 8¾@8¾.

WILLOWS—Sales Kentucky willows at 10.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, March 30, 1871.

The Petroleum market was again excessively dull and heavy to-day, and the advices from the oil regions, New York and Philadelphia were of a similar character. Creek operators generally are anxious to sell, but the trouble with them is in finding buyers; there seems to be no demand worthy of the name, outside of the oil regions, and, recently, if reports are true, buyers have become very scarce even there. Refined continues to decline, though the impression is gaining strength that it is not likely to go much lower; while, on the other hand, the feeling is very generally entertained, that there must be a still further decline in Crude.

CRUDE.

Not a single sale reported. April offered at 10¾, with no buyers, against sales yesterday at 10¾@10¾. Seller all year quoted at 10@10¾; and buyer until July at 11. On lower creek, offers to sell at $4, with report of some settlements, having been made at $3,90.

REFINED.

Continues dull and weak, and drooping. Spot or March is quoted down to 23; and April at 23¾. Futures are nominal, Indeed, there is not enough doing to establish quotations.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede slowly with 6 feet 8 inches in channel last evening. Weather cloudy and raw with an occasional light fall of rain.

The Shannon will depart for New Orleans to-day.

The Exchange has a sign out for St. Louis.

The S. S. Merrill, was due last night and will doubtless be found in port this morning. She is a new and commodious side wheeler, this being her first trip; she will at once commence loading for the Upper Mississippi.

The Arlington will leave here every Wednesday, hereafter. She formerly left on Tuesday.

The Belle Vernon had over 20,000 packages of glass-ware.

Business at the landing continues slow.

The Juniata arrived about eleven o'clock yesterday with an excellent trip and departed again last night.

The Belle Vernon, departed for St. Louis with a big trip, about 1,000 tons, 600 on boat and 400 on barge, and a fair number of passengers. John Ferguson, and Johnston Mulrine are her pilots to Cincinnati.

The Granite State arrived from Portsmouth. Robert Gordon, one of the Juniata's pilots was off duty last trip, having been called home by sickness in his family.

The Carrie Brooks is due from Zanesville this morning and will return as usual on Saturday.

The Ironsides' barges are filling up steadily for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi. She is announced to depart on Monday.

The Kate Putnam from Nashville, was due last night.

The Belle V. Vernon takes on 1500 kegs of nails at Wheeling.

The Carrie V. Kountz came off the sectional dock at St. Louis on Tuesday.

—The New Orleans Times of Sunday says: "Doubtless the bulk of the business season is already over; if so, we may this year expect the dullest spring and summer season experienced for years. We still have plenty of sugar molasses stored in the sugar-sheds, and as it has been there for months past it is quite probable that it will remain there for some time, as we understand that shippers are awaiting a chance to ship at 16 or 17 cents, which rate would not pay the labor on it. Many of the Western packets which left last week, and the previous week, had recourse to railroad iron, salt, and other small lots of measurement freight, and took but little, if any, sugar and molasses; The rates on sugar during the past week ruled at 25 cents per hundred, and will doubtless continue unchanged during the ensuing week."

—The Greenville Times of the 18th says of a dangerous break in the Lake Bolivar levee: "From Mr. S. Anderson, who is just from there, we are informed of this calamitous event. The outer levee broke night before last and the main levee across the mouth of lake Bolivar, yesterday. The break is beyond all power of repair, and the running water is continually enlarging it; it is running through at a depth of about five feet. The neighboring planters strove hard to stop the first break, but in vain. It is impossible to predict with any accuracy the probable extent of country which will be flooded."

—The tug Pioneer, bound down, with three stave barges in tow, was run into by the City of Cairo, at daylight Monday morning, at Blem's Point, opposite Commerce, fifty miles below Memphis. One barge, containing 21,000 staves, belonging to Clarence Johnson, was totally lost. Another, containing 35,000 staves, belonging to Isaac Farnham, of Delphi, Ind., was sunk, but will be saved, as it was towed to shore before it went down. The other boat was unharmed. Johnson's boat was insured.

—The Belle of Alton was burned at Algiers, opposite New Orleans, on Tuesday morning. She was owned at St. Louis by the St. Louis and Alton Packet Company, and valued $50,000. She is insured in Cincinnati, Wheeling and Pittsburgh companies, tor from $35,000 to $40,000. She had recently been engaged in the New Orleans and Red River trade, but was laid up when she was burned.

—The case of Charles Alling, administrator of the estate of Otis B. Sappington, versus Cincinnati & Louisville Mail Line Company, for $5,000 damages, on account of the collision of the steamers United States and America, by reason of which Sappington lost his life, is dragging its slow length along at Vevay, Ind., before Judge Carter.

—The St. Louis Republican, of Wednesday, says: W. G. Clark and William Dorr of this city are on their way here with the sternwheel boat Park Painter, which they purchased at Pittsburgh. William Dorr takes command, and intends to run rafts from Stillwater to this place, this season.

—Captain Stein says the P. W. Strader made her last round trip from Cincinnati to New Orleans and back in seventeen days, including 24 hours lost in coming up over the falls. On her recent upward trip she also made the run from Natchez to Vicksburg in eleven hours.

—Capt. Dave Campbell purchased the towboat McPorter last Saturday, at St. Louis, for the sum of $2,500. She will be wrecked, and her machinery offered for sale.

—A dispatch from Evansville says the steamer Idlewild made her daylight run from Cairo to Evansville in 15 hours and 39 minutes, the fastest time on record.

—A barge of the Simpson Horner's tow sunk in the canal on Tuesday morning, but was raised by the Robin.

GRATES. GRATES.

Keep Your Houses Clean,

AND

BY USING THE

Wellman Patent Reflector STOVE AND GRATE.

Which Stand Without a Rival.

The WELLMAN STOVE is furnished with the "REFLECTOR GRATE," and possesses all the advantages of an open fire place; it is specially adapted to houses where the flues are too small to admit a grate, and affords all the comforts of a CHEERFUL OPEN FIRE.

1st. As a radiator of heat it has double the intensity of any other grate.

2d. It is unquestionably the most cleanly—no soot or ashes escaping into the room—which, in the ordinary Grate, proves so detrimental to carpets and furniture.

3d. The combustion is perfect. There is no waste in unburnt cinders—every ounce of the fuel is so completely consumed, that nothing remains but the finest ashes.

4th. As an economizer of fuel—there being an actual saving of at least 25 per cent.

5th. It is highly ornamental.

6th. It is set so deep in the chimney, that it is much safer, and also less liable to puff in windy weather.

7th. A slight motion of the shaker cleanses the entire fire, and causes it to burn with great brilliancy and intensity of heat.

Samples may be seen and references had at the store of W. BARNES, corner of 3d avenue and Market street, Pittsburgh; W. F. GOODWIN, 66 Federal street, Allegheny; or at the FOUNDRY, corner Duquesne Way and Water street, Pittsburgh.

Parties who are building, or who contemplate changing Grates, are respectfully requested to examine "The Wellman." Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

HOME NEWS.

To Subscribers.

Subscribers who may remove on the first of April to other residences, are respectfully requested to leave their new addresses at our counting room, in order that our paper may be regularly delivered to them.

Yesterday was a dark, dull, dreary day.

In Town.—Adam H. Ecker, of the Washington, Pa., Examiner, is in the city.

The Public Catholic Library has been removed to the basement of the Cathedral.

The owners of property on Fremont street, Allegheny, want a sewer on that thoroughfare.

Mayor Brush yesterday morning, sent James O. Grogan, a Frenchman, to jail for ten days for fighting on the street.

One Headed Girls are going out of fashion. The Two Headed Girl makes her appearance at Masonic Hall next Monday.

Charles Rembaugh was fined five dollars yesterday, for obstructing a Birmingham street car, by driving his wagon in front of it and refusing to get out of the way.

Squire Patterson was aroused from his slumbers Wednesday evening and called from his downy couch at a "witching hour" to perform a hymenial ceremony in his district West Liberty, Lower St. Clair township.

Sold.—The elegant watch received by Mr. W. G. Dunseath from Geneva, which we noticed in yesterday's GAZETTE, has been sold to one of our leading citizens at $500. It is still on exhibition however, at Mr. Dunseath's, No 56 Fifth avenue.

There is a bill now in preparation for the opening of Fayette street, sixth ward, Allegheny, through to the river. The street now ends at Beaver avenue, and the proposed extension is rendered possible by the destruction of the paper mill which until a few days ago, obstructed the way.

Post No. 151 of the Grand Army of the Republic, of this city, has purchased the copyright of the "Good Fight," that sterling patriotic drama written by Messrs. J. N. Gotthold and Wm. C. Smythe. The play will soon be appropriately placed on the stage, when all will have an opportunity of judging of its merits.

Desertion.—A charge of desertion was yesterday preferred before Alderman O'Donnell by Mary Shields against her husband, Frank Shields. She alleges that Frank left her some time ago and refuses to support her or their child. The parties reside on Poplar alley. A warrant has been issued for the delinquent husband.

The Twenty-five Thousand Dollar Wonder.—Major Burnell, at the enormous expense of five hundred dollars per week, has secured the great wonder of all wonders, the double-headed child, and she will be presented to our citizens at the Museum on next Monday, and can be seen in connection with the other curiosities for the usual price of admission.

Paid the Bill.—A charge of obtaining board under false pretenses was yesterday preferred before Deputy Mayor Nichols by Andrew Bushman against Edward McDonald. The prosecutor alleges that the indebtedness, $5.75, was incurred in November last, and that the accused still refuses to pay it. Edward was arrested, settled the bill, and was discharged.

Assault.—Mary Eastley charged Thomas Burke, before Alderman Logan, yesterday with assault. She alleges that the accused was beating one Melinda Lucas, who fled into her house for protection, followed by Burke, and that when she endeavored to close her door, he pushed violently against it, shoving her against the wall. The defendant was arrested and committed to jail to await a hearing.

Kept his Coat.—A warrant was yesterday granted by Alderman O'Donnell, for the arrest of Henry Holdwick, charged on oath of Charles Benz with larceny as bailee. The complainant alleges that he gave into the possession of defendant a brown cloth dress coat, valued at $30, which the latter appropriated to his own use, contrary to the provisions of Section 116 of the Penal Code. Warrant issued.

Overturned.—Yesterday morning a horse attached to a furniture car loaded with the household furniture of Mr. Frank Schleiter, ran away on Ann street, Sixth ward, Allegheny, and delivered the goods promiscuously all along the street. Mr. Schleiter was also thrown from the wagon and painfully injured. The runaway finally collided with another vehicle and a mutual demolition was the result.

We learn that Mr. James McConnell of South Fayette township has been placed in the field as a candidate for the nomination for the office of County Treasurer of Allegheny county. He is one of the first candidates in the field for what is likely to become a lively and spirited contest. We are of the opinion that he stands as good a chance as any man in the county of being nominated as none, not even his enemies, have any thing to say against him.

Child Beater.—Mrs. Ottilier Whipple made oath before Alderman Johnston yesterday charging Mrs. Catharine Kalthaler with assault and battery. The prosecutrix who has occupied a house belonging to the accused was engaged in moving therefrom and sent her little girl with a basket to get some small articles left behind when the latter as is alleged took the basket from the child and beat her about the head and body with it. A warrant has been issued.

Runaway.—Yesterday about noon a horse attached to a wagon load of furniture in going down Boyle street, Allegheny, took fright at some passing object ran away and dashed down the street and in attempting to turn into North avenue collided with the lamp post upset the wagon and threw driver and contents on to the street. The furniture and crockery were smashed to smithereens. Fortunately the driver escaped with few painful but not serious bruises.

Disorderly.—An information for disorderly conduct against George Demel was made yesterday before Burgess Salisbury of Birmingham George Crouse, who states that the defendant came to his house while intoxicated, abused his family and disturbed the peace of the neighborhood generally. The accused was arrested and committed to the lock-up. At the intercession of his wife he was released on payment of the costs and promising to behave himself for the future.

Letters retained for postage, March 30—
Batten, Sarah, Gutherville, Pa., 3 cents.
Campbell, Hary C., Georgetown, Colorado, 3 cents.
Johnston & Co., J. E., Philadelphia, Pa., 3 cents.
Duncan, Clara, Saltsburg, Pa., 3 cents.
Mills, Isaac, Pittsburgh, Pa., 2 cents.
Power, Nancy, Elizabeth, Pa., 4 cents.
Weaver, Maud, Allegheny, Pa., 3 cents.

Progressing.—The Second Avenue Park is coming on very finely. At a meeting of those interested in its improvement, last evening choice was made for three large fountains of very elegant design. They will come from the East. The improvements of the square will cost several thousand dollars, but the money expended in such a laudable enterprise will hardly every be missed. It is a great pity that there are not more such squares to be beautified in the city.

Old Friends.—Mr. John Irwin, of Gamble, Allegheny county, Pa., renews his subscription to the Weekly GAZETTE and although now in the 83d years of his age, has been a constant reader of our paper from boyhood up He was in the war 1812, and made a creditable record. Mr. Gamble, after whom is named the Postoffice, is another venerable friend of the GAZETTE. He has attained the ripe old age of eight-seven years, and as yet is as able, hearty and stout as most people of half that number of years. We wish our old friends a happy evening time of life.

Explosive Oil.—A friend who has taken much pains to investigate the several oils in the market, the use of which has been attended with such frightful consequences, and loss of life, places in our possession a sample of the death dealing fluid. The oil is exceedingly light and gritty, and as dangerous as gunpowder. The specimen is peculiarly interesting, inasmuch as it is the same which caused the death of Mrs. Folmer, of the Twenty-second Ward, a few days ago. We do not see why grocers will sell cheap oil. The profits thereon may be a trifle greater than on good quality, but do not recompense the exposure of life, limb and property to which they subject their customers.

Capias Issued.

A capias was yesterday issued by Alderman Morrow for the arrest of Flora de Hadley for trover and conversion on oath of Fannie Woods. The prosecutrix some time ago boarded with the accused, and left her house owing a small bill, for which she gave a trunk as security. Subsequently she returned at the urgent solicitation of her former landlady, alleges, when the latter took possession of her other trunk, against which there is no claim, and refuses to give up the same. A hearing will be had in the matter to-day.

The Income Tax.

It may interest those parties who may have been notified to make Income returns to know that the assessors have power "in all cases of wilful neglect, or refusal to make and render a return," to make up a return themselves for the parties so neglecting or refusing, and to add 50 or 1 00 per cent thereto, as a penalty as the case may be. The assistant assessors have been notified by the assessors not to demand returns except from those who there is good reason to believe, had a gross income from all sources of over $2,000 last year. It will be safest, therefore, in all cases where demand has been made, to make return.

Appointments.

The State Superintendent of Common Schools has appointed Hugh McCandless, Esq., of Freeport, County Superintendent for Armstrong county, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Samuel Murphy.

The following notaries public have been appointed by Governor Geary for a term of three years each: John A. Wilson, York, York county; Gilbert Hurd, Springfield township, Erie county; Wm. Strine, Sr., Milton, Northumberland county; Forsyth Petrikin (special for bank) Renovo, Clinton county, and J. G. D. Findlay, Freeport, Armstrong county.

Gone to Claremont.

John Yates, who has for some time past been imposing upon the charitably disposed by representing that he was desirous of raising funds to take him to his home at Philadelphia, was arrested and committed to the Seventeenth ward lock-up for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. It being proven at the hearing, before Deputy Mayor Nichols yesterday morning, that John, instead of purchasing a railroad ticket, appropriated the funds thus collected to the purchase of whisky, that magistrate furnished him with a letter of introduction to Superintendent Cordier, with a request that he grant him the hospitalities of Claremont for the next thirty days.

Suicide.

On Thursday morning about five o'clock, Samuel Montgomery was found dead in his bedroom, having hung himself by means of a strap fastened to the bedpost. His residence was in a tenant house on the estate of John Gillfellan Esq. in Upper St. Clair Township Mr. Montgomery leaves a wife and 4 or 5 children. He was in comfortable circumstances, but for some time has been laboring under a depression of spirits but not to such extent as to excite alarm in his family or apprehension of his taking his own life.

Esquire Gillfellan held an inquest on the body of deceased yesterday. The funeral will take place at noon to-day. John and Richard Colvin, meat haulers of this city are brothers-in-law of the deceased.

"JOAN OF ARC."

Library Hall Last Night—Miss Annie E. Dickinson on the Stage—What She Says of the French Maiden of Four Centuries Ago—A Brilliant Historical Word Painting.

The course of lectures under the auspices of the Library Association was continued last night at their hall, Miss Annie E. Dickinson being the attraction. Miss Dickinson has many friends here, and is without doubt the most popular, as she is the most gifted, of all the fair speakers who appear upon our lecture platform; but somehow her friends failed to come out in remarkably strong force. It was not by any means a small audience, yet there was room for more. Perhaps the subject, not very startling, had something to do with the attendance, and many doubtless preferred to await the second lecture. The quality, however, atoned for the lack of quantity, and that is enough.

Through some misfortune—the delay of the train, it was understood—the lecturess was twenty minutes late. A "Jenkins," who was behind the scenes, avers that this female Cæsar is like to others of the gentler sex, in that after arrival at the dressing room, with the impatient stamping of the audience very audible, she yet calmly removed her cloak, and with sweet serenity spent well, full a minute—in front of the mirror, arranging her flowing tresses; but then Jenkins is impudent and untrustworthy, and—and that has nothing to do with the lecture.

Mr. W. D. Howard about half past eight o'clock preceded her upon the platform and went through the usual formality of introducing Miss Dickinson to the audience. They had just sufficient time to observe that she was faultless arrayed in a black silk, flounced the ladies said it was and ruffled and frilled, and set off with a simple wide lace collar, and the gold guard to her time-keeper, all the very essence of neatness,—when she began her discourse, of which we herewith provide an abstract. This was the first time she had taken the stage in Pittsburgh upon a theme of a purely historical character and expectation was somewhat excited to discover how she would succeed. The lecture seemed to be longer than usual, but never have we observed a more attentive audience, although they might have been just a little more enthusiastic. The applause was rather scarce, but then it was hearty the half dozen times it did come, and in that is the best evidence of the success last night of one of the most brilliant historical lectures to which we have ever listened. A synopsis, at the best, devoid of the manner and expression and fervor with which Miss Dickinson speaks, cannot but detract in a measure from that spoken, and the outline which follows we give merely to afford our readers some idea of the general literary character of the effort.

Commencing by a reference to

she said that among the names which time shall consign to eternity, there is none that is more absolutely stamped with letters of gold than that of Joan of Arc, who ended strife and won victory for the France that had brought untold misery upon itself by illegally excluding a woman from the throne. Joan was born in Domremy, a little village of Lorraine, which then, as now, was swept by contending armies. Her father was a poor but independent farmer, whose sheep she tended. Her mother was a good and pious woman, who taught Jenny needlework. So good a horsewoman was the future heroine that she often carried away the prize at the village tournaments. Friend and foe testify that she was gentle and benevolent. She would take the bread and the cup from her own lips to give to the beggar at the door. She was devoted to religious exercises, and might often be found prostrate before altars and shrines. Her priest said she was the only one in the village who never missed confession, and the only one who never had anything to confess. She was so fond of bells that she gave the ringer of her slender store to prolong his chimes. While companions played, she wandered under the free sky in silent meditation, and while they laughed she prayed.

SPIRIT OF HER DREAMINGS.

From her father's house she could see the great forests of the Vosges, through which she doubtless often strayed and gathered vague inspiration from the solemn undertone of the trees. Domremy stood at the crossing of two great roads, where troops of travelers passed, and the tales they told of France grew sadder and sadder as the years passed by. This girl was intensely loyal. Her patriotism was part of her religion. See her little face as she listens to these tales, and mark the shadow of an awful hope gather upon it as she bears the proverb that since France had been lost through a woman, it should be restored through a girl of the marshes of Lorraine. Solitude, and nature, and prayer, and faith fed this hope. So Jenny's childhood went on; so France staggered to its doom. Her love for her country was a divine passion. She adored France as she adored God, and that feeling bears down all things small and mean and base in her. In a vision, she tells us, St. Michael appeared and told her God had chosen her to crown the King, Charles VII., and drive out the armies of the victorious English. Other visions followed. Either these were facts or they were the results of imagination. Whoever admits them as facts writes himself down a devout believer in modern spiritualism. Admit them to be the work of imagination, and you make her the clearest thinker, the bravest soldier, the wisest statesmen, and the ablest general of her time. I believe they were the reflections of her own soul.

HER MISSION.

Jenny had a bad time at home, and an uncle who loved her took her to his own house, and then went as her ambassador to the Governor to say that his niece was sent by God to raise the siege of Orleans and crown the King. Fancy such a message brought to Lincoln. The Governor derides both uncle and niece, but the girl sways mightily with the people of the village by her passionate love for France. She had favors, too, and finally she tell one of them of her vision, and says, "No power can bring help to this unhappy King but I alone." And the young man and old weather-beaten knight clasped hand and vowed to bring her to him. But meanwhile the King has heard of her and sends for her to come. She crosses 104 leagues of hostile territory and eight bridgeless rivers, and the poor court makes itself splendid to receive this peasant girl. After much questioning she is judged to be sent by God.

THE ARMY OF JOAN.

The command is given to her, with attendant knights, and a sword, and a banner stamped with the lilies of France. Her army is 6,000 ruffians. She goes among them, the embodiment of France, and, by her faith and her genius, makes them crusaders. All vileness is swept out, and the camp becomes a holy place. She enters Orleans on a black charger, and clad in snowy armor, her face blazing with hope, and loyalty, and inspiration. The great men in the town believed in the woman, as great men always have done. [Applause.] But the little men thought to steal the fruits of Jenny's genius by leading her soldiers slyly against the enemy. They fail, and she rallies the dispirited French and leads them to victory. The next day is the Festival of the Ascension, and Jenny goes to pray. Again the little generals rush out, and fail, and again Jenny flies to the front and snatches victory from defeat.

THE HEROINE IN BATTLE.

Her plan of campaign was to fight. The next morning, in defiance of the Generals and the Council, she takes the field. The Governor will not open the gate and her soldiers beat it down. They attack one of the English towers, and fight in vain from morn till noon. In desperation, Jenny seizes a ladder and mounts the wall. An arrow strikes her shoulder and she falls into the trench. The woman weeps with pain, but the heroine tears out the arrow with her own hand. The troops rest and eat, and Jenny prays. Then they once more attack the English, who look with terror on this girl they had thought slain. Thousands sink in death, the bridge between the towers falls into the river, the second tower is taken, and everything is within the grasp of the French. The next day is Sunday, and Jenny will not fight, but holds that chafing army still while the defeated English steal away.

FROM GRANDEUR TO GLOOM.

All this has been done in six days and the eighth they rejoice. Then this girl, with the splendor of genius and the sublimity of common sense combined, makes Charles consent to be crowned. To open the way to Rheims she captures town after town, defeats the English in the open field, and routs the last remains of the magnificent force sent to conquer France. Then the king is crowned, and that day is the crown of Jenny's life. All that human grandeur has to spend upon a human being is spent upon this simple girl at Rheims. And then, her work completed, she desired to return home and lead her sheep once more. The King and the Court overrules her, and she fights on. But she is incessantly in tears and in prayer. Envy and hate surround her, and she foresees her doom. She goes to save Compiegne, but, in assault, the treacherous Governor cuts off her retreat by raising a drawbridge, and she falls into the power of her enemies.

THE HOUR OF TRIAL.

The Duke of Burgundy sells her to the English and she is lodged at Rouen. A whole year has passed since her capture. Her King, her army, her people have deserted her. She must have thought that even God had turned away His face. She is alone utterly Alone has its synonym death. She hears the happy Easter bells and the people singing in the street. Her heart breaks! And then the pink of chivalry. Warwick will, have her life saved, for the King of England has determined that she must die a better death. They place her on the scaffold and say, 'Recant, or be burned". She stands firm, but at last she affixes her mark to six lines, promising to let her hair grow and to wear armor no more. Then they take away her dresss and leave her only armor, and she, with naught else to cover her innocence puts it on and death with it.

AT THE STAKE.

They instantly place her in a cart, and she rides to the scaffold through bristling lines of soldiery and yelling multitudes clamoring for her life. At the stake all her judges are her murderers, and they preach a sermon accusing her of every crime. She is silent, but they speak against her King, and she cries with deathless loyalty, "You accuse the noblest gentleman in Christendom." Then she mounts the scaffold. Around her are shouting, faithless multitudes. Her last thought is for France. Then the fagots are heaped—the flames are lighted. "Hold before me the cross," she says to the poor priest, her only friend. Nothing is heard but the crackling flames and broken whispers of prayer. At last the mighty and triumphant voice cries the name of the Master she serves. Her head drops forward on her breast. She has fought the good fight; she has finished her course; she has kept the faith. [Applause.]

Miss Dickinson, for the first time in Pittsburgh, will speak on "Men's Rights" this evening.

Graff, Hugus & Co.

At this season, when so many changes of residence and of business are occurring, and so many new dwellings and stores are being made ready for occupation and use, it will be interesting to many to be reminded that the well-known firm above named have run their foundry and finishing shops busily all winter in preparation for a large spring trade, and are now displaying at their ware house, Nos. 206 and 208 Liberty street, samples of their very large stock, embracing, besides nearly every sort of common castings, a stock of select wares, including several sizes of their popular "Fiery Furnaces," adapted to heating public buildings, stores or dwellings; also several sizes adapted to larger and smaller kitchens of their "Boston double ovened improved Cooking Range," and their "Nile's improved Star Range." These Furnaces and also the cooking ranges have been extensively introduced in these cities and are unsurpassed for economy, utility and convenience. The firm have fitted up an apartment for exhibiting their fine stock of Grates and fire fronts which is in great variety of beautiful designs and exquisite finish, and will fit any of the marble mantles of Pittsburgh or eastern manufacture. The castings turned out in this establishment will be found very smooth and perfect. We have not elsewhere seen a stock which in extent, quality, variety and style is more attractive, or in which every taste will more certainly be able to suit itself. We advise parties about to fit up new houses or refit old ones to visit the store of Graff, Hugus & Co., before making their selections. They will find our statements well sustained by the facts, and the proprietors and salesmen attentive, obliging and in all their dealings strictly fair and honorable.

THE GRAND JURY'S WORK.

What They Say of Matters in General around the Court House—The Magistrates again Reprimanded—A Plea for the Temperance Men—The License Question Revived—The County Jail and Workhouse—with Sundry Suggestions.

The Grand Jury yesterday completed the work referred to them, and were discharged with the thanks of the Court after presenting a report of their observations, and recommendations in a presentment as follows:

To the Honorable Judges of the Court of Quarter Sessions for the county of Allegheny:

The Grand Jury for the March term, now in session, beg leave respectfully to present the following report, as the result of the inquest, which in their official capacity they have been called upon to make:

INTRESTING TO PROSECUTORS.

In the discharge of their duty they have been gratified to find in the bills presented to them for consideration a smaller number than usual of the more aggravated class of crimes with which our courts are familiar, and of those investigated, a large number have been ignored as too trivial in character and grade to justify the formality of a trial in the Criminal Court, and in most of these cases we have been satisfied that these suits have been entered as a means of gratifying malice on the part of the prosecutor, or from a fondness for litigation, too often encouraged by the committing magistrates, whose temptation lies in the direction of a fee where there is the shadow of an excuse for a commitment. In all such cases we have considered it wise policy to let the prosecutor pay the cost, in order to discourage as far as possible this fondness for litigation, and only regret that, in some of them at least, it has not been in our power to reach the magistrate himself as a partner in the costs as well as in the profits.

MAGISTERIAL DELINQUENCIES.

In this connection, and in strong contrast with the official zeal alluded to in the foregoing, we have to notice the willful neglect on the part of the constables and magistrates to make return of open violations of the law, more especially as relates to the liquor traffic, which must of necessity come under their notice within the bounds of their jurisdiction, and which under the sacred obligation of their oath of office, they are bound to return to this Court. In the found by the Grand Jury, we find 203 bills, and ignored 71 bills, making in all 274 bills passed upon. These were classed as follows: Felonies, 68; miscellaneous, 206.

INCONSISTENCY OF THE LICENSE LAW.

We would be derelict in the discharge of our duty if we should refrain from once more calling your attention to this most fruitful source of wickedness and crime, entailing as it does, misery and wretchedness, both physical and mental, upon its immediate victims and their property, while it supplies more inmates to our insane asylums, prisons and almshouses than any other cause. In the investigation of the cases of crime claiming our attention, so large a number of which are directly and clearly traceable to the use of intoxicating drinks as the producing cause, we have been forcibly impressed with the inadequacy of our laws to reach the true criminal in the case, and we can scarcely avoid the conclusion that there is a glaring inconsistency in the law itself, which, while legalizing a traffic leading so palpably and directly to the commission of crime, at the same time requires the punishment by severe penalties of the criminal who might otherwise remain a peaceable and law abiding citizen.

COMPLIMENTARY TO THE SALOON KEEPERS.

But we have to deal with the enforcement of law as defined on our statute books, and in this inquest we find, not only are the peace of the community and human life imperilled in numberless instances by the cupidity of men endorsed by reputable (?) citizens as safe agents for the sale of this dangerous commodity, but that there are men engaged in the business who will not shrink from giving into the hands of the murderer, stained with the yet warm blood of his victim, more of the stimulant which first inflamed his evil passions and led him to commit the bloody act, thus sending him forth to fresh acts of violence and cruelty.

THE REMEDY SUGGESTED.

The only remedy under the law as it exists among us lies back of the granting of license to such unprincipled men. The first list of applications from persons residing in Allegheny county for license to sell liquors during the coming year has just appeared in the columns of our daily papers. The list contains 135 names and will doubtless be followed by hundreds more. Let us plead for a thorough and searching investigation of the grounds of each application, and that the provisions of the law governing the issue of licenses shall be strictly complied with. No license should be granted to any party whose promises do not thoroughly conform to the statute, and this fact should be settled upon sworn testimony, not loose hearsay.

CITIZENS AND THE LICENSE BOARD.

The License Board have it in their power, nay, are bound by the very letter of the law to refuse to license "any inn or tavern which shall not be necessary to accommodate the public and entertain strangers and travelers," and who doubts for a moment that if this single provision of the law were observed and enforced by the people's sworn servants, into whose hands has been committed this responsible trust, nine-tenths of the 1,200 liquor shops in our county would not be summarily closed. But a duty rests upon each individual citizen as well, and if the moral sense of the community does not support the faithful officer in the discharge of his duty, we cannot expect a strict enforcement of law, however good it may be. Let every citizen who is called upon to sign a tavern license see to it that, in compliance with the request, he is not endorsing a grog-shop, where too many already exist, that will surely bring destruction and death into the community where it is located, and let no man fail to bid a hearty God-speed to any and every effort that courageous men are willing to put forth to crush out this great and growing evil.

CONDITION OF THE JAIL.

During our session we paid a visit to the county prison, and in regard to the jail have not much to report that is worthy of special notice. We found the apartments allotted to the prisoners, as usual, crowded, and the atmosphere anything but sweet. The cells and court, however, were clean and the discipline, as far as we could learn, as good as circumstances would permit. We would recommend that in order to the security of the prisoners and the safety of the keepers, there should be iron gratings to the windows in the passage way leading from the prison to the Court room and the doorway leading from the hall to the out jail yard, by which prisoners under the charge of one guard, as at present, could find ready means of escape.

THAT RURAL RETREAT.

The Work House claims more than a passing notice at our hands, as an institution in which the citizens of this county may take great pride. So far as our investigations were prosecuted we found everything that is consistent with the safe keeping and security of the prisoner provided to ameliorate their condition, both physical and moral, and if the object of the institution be to reform the man as well as to protect society from the outgrowth of his unrestrained evil propensities we cannot but congratulate you upon the wise management of this institution, which thus far has been operated under the disadvantages of unfinished building, and a necessarily imperfect system of discipline.

LARGER SENTENCES RECOMMENDED.

From an examination of the second annual report of its officers we find that in its workings in an economical point of view it has been a success, but as nearly two-thirds of the prisoners for the last year were convicted for terms of from ten to thirty days each, many of whom were inmates of the hospital during most of the time, and as no prisoners are allowable whose term of imprisonment exceeds two years, it becomes a question of serious import to the tax payers of the county whether the courts might not use their discretionary power to advantage in some cases for a further extension of sentences, and thus contribute in making this institution not only self-sustaining, but a source of revenue to the county and materially lessen the burthen of taxation.

GRANDEUR AND DECAY.

The Grand Jury have noticed a marked improvement in the appearance of the rotunda and corridors of the Court House, effected by the application of a fresh coat of paint. But we would call the attention of the County Commissioners to the outward condition of the building, especially to the safety of parapets and chimneys, as also to the portico and steps leading thereto. The stones composing them have crumbled away from the effects of exposure to the weather, so as to seriously endanger the stability of the building.

AND FINALLY

we take pleasure in acknowledging the attentions of Messrs. Cordier, the efficient Superintendent of the Work House, and Warden Scandrett, of the County Jail, as also the courtesies of the able Managers of the Work House, Messrs. Albree, White and Bissell. We also most cheerfully testify to the faithfulness and energy of the Commonwealth's Assistant District Attorney Flack, whose ready tact in the conduct of the cases submitted to us for investigation, and indefatigable zeal in keeping us up to our work, together with the careful interpretation of bills by Mr. McConnell, have served to lighten and to a considerable degree abbreviated the labors of your Grand Jury, now brought to a close. All of which is respectfully submitted.

DEAD IN HIS BED.

An Old Man Commits Suicide—Strangled to Death—A Sad Case.

Yesterday morning a sad case of suicide was developed in the little village of Sodom, Upper St. Clair township, on the old Washington road. The victim was an old gentleman named Samuel Montgomery, the father of a large family and a man who was universally esteemed in the neighborhood. For many years he has been manager of the extensive stock farm of Captain John Gilfillan in that locality, but recently gave up that position and leased a farm for himself. He started in business thus for himself within a month or so, but somehow became very much depressed and melancholy. No thought that he would do himself personal injury was entertained by his family, but it seems he secretly meditated suicide, and when they awoke they were shocked to find him dead in his bed. He had taken a strap, fastened it around his neck and to the bedpost, and then deliberately strangled himself by lying with his full weight upon the noose thus made. When discovered he lay with his face downward, and had apparently been dead for several hours. No noise was heard during the night, and nothing was known of his act until the morning.

Montgomery was about fifty years of age, and it is supposed that his change of position had plunged him into financial difficulties, which preyed upon his mind.

Coroner West has been notified, and will hold an inquest to-day, when perhaps further facts will be developed.

The Spring Trade.

Now as our merchants and dealers are busily engaged in making preparations for the transaction of a large spring trade, we deem it a fitting time to direct attention to the fact that the old established and enterprising firm, Messrs. G. J. Young & Son, No. 141 Smithfield street, have greatly enlarged their facilities for the manufacture of show cases of all descriptions, sizes, shapes and qualities, and are now enabled to supply their patrons at greatly reduced rates from those which have previously prevailed. By the introduction of much improved machinery they can turn out a great deal more work than formerly at much less cost, and this advantage they propose sharing with their patrons. Their show cases have ever compared with those turned out by any manufacturer in the country, and have invariably borne the impress of neatness, durability and superior workmanship.

EDUCATIONAL.

Meeting of the Scott Township Teachers Institute.

The closing exercises of the associaton took place on Saturday, March 25th, at the Woodville School House. The meeting convened at 1 o'clock P. M. and was organized by calling F. F. McCabe Esq. of Woodville, to the chair, Prof. D. M. McKee, acting Secretary. This not being the regular meeting of the associaton, but simply a farewell, or we might say a parting and breaking of the bond which has held teachers, pupils, patrons and directors in such companionship for the school term. Although all obligations so far as the schools are concerned may have been severed yet we feel satisfied, from the indicatons of good will which seemed to exist, that the claim of friendship remained unbroken. Each and all of the teachers, had prepared a short essay or speech for the occasion. The subjects, of course, were not confined to any particular branch of science or any ideal system of teaching, but were in general a farewell or good-by kindly spoken, which indicated that the parting was not a pleasant one. Miss Lucinda Neely and Miss Ella Harvies varied somewhat from the general topic of discussion. The subject of one essay written by the former was "Association." The lady seemed fully inspired with the idea that association in general was pleasant and agreeable, as well as useful and ornamental; but she spoke more especially of the association of people together for the purpose of furthering the cause of popular education as being of untold value. The subject of Miss Howes' essay was "Elevating the Standard." The essay was good and well rendered, and we were highly pleased with this beautiful suggestion thrown out by the lady that, in whatever position a teacher may be placed, let them endeavor to do their duty well, or in the words of the poet—

"Honor and shame from no condition rise,
Act well your part, there all the honor lies."

At the close of these performances, remarks were made by the different members of the Board of Education, expressing the entire satisfaction of the Board with reference to the manner which the schools and institutes had been carried on during the past session. The meeting was then addressed by Prof. A. T. Douthett, County Superintendent, in a short, but well timed and eloquent speech, on the benefits to be derived from well conducted institutes; in the course of his remarks he compared the past condition of the schools of Scott township, with that of the present, intimating that it was only a very few years since Scott, made but a dim light, among the constellation of townships, that decked the intellectual heavens of Allegheny county; and he was glad that to day he could congratulate the people of Scott township, that they were fast advancing step by step, to the front rank, and that in a very few years Scott, would be no longer a secondary, but, the primary light of the county.

At the close of Mr. Douthett's remarks, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

We, the teachers of Scott township, having met together as an Institute for the last time, do, in view of the kindness and encouragement shown us by the directors of said township,

Resolve, 1st. That we tender our sincere thanks for their kindness in co-operating with us in our work, and encouraging us with their presence at our Institutes, and for the interest manifested in the same.

Second. That it is the opinion of the present corps of teachers, that if the encouragement and sympathy which has been extended to them, be not withheld from the teachers of the coming term, the advancement in the schools of Scott township, will be carried to a higher degree of excellence than ever before.

Third. That we, the teachers of this township, will strive to merit the approbation of patrons and directors, in whatever field we may labor, by advancing by every effort in our power the common cause of education.

Fourth. That we express our gratitude to Prof. Douthett for his presence with us, and for the encouraging and profitable remarks made by him at this our farewell meeting.

Fifth. That in view of the success that has attended the Institute of Scott township, and the beneficial effects resulting therefrom, we recommend to the directors of the different townships of Allegheny county, that Institutes be held in each and every school district in the county.

Sixth. That the proceedings of this institute be reported to the Pittsburgh papers. C.

GAS FIXTURES.

Great Reduction in Prices—Fine Spring Stock.

The present season, when removals and changes are the order of the day, it may be timely to direct attention to the new and elegant stock of gas fixtures just opened at the old established house of Messrs. Weldon & Kelly, No. 147 Wood street. The stock has been selected with especial good care, and purchasers will have no difficulty in making suitable selections. It comprises all the latest and most fashionable styles of gilt, bronze and plain chandeliers for gas and oil pendants, and brackets of all sizes and degrees of finish and beauty. Owing to heavy purchases, the firm receive special advantages which enable them to sell at wholesale and retail at the ordinary manufacturers' rates, so that it is much cheaper to buy here than to send orders East. Messrs. Weldon & Kelly, making a specialty of chandeliers, have fitted up in fine style the second floor of their commodious and well appointed establishment as an exhibition or sample room, which is a great convenience to themselves and their customers.

The firm also deal largely in oil lamps, shades &c., of all of which they have full and complete lines which they offer at specially reduced rates. Being practical mechanics and employing a large force of workmen Messrs. Weldon & Kelly attend to plumbing, gas and steam fitting of all descriptions in good and durable style and at most reasonable rates. For any thing in their line of trade we commend our readers to this firm, knowing them personally from long business connection to be honorable and painstaking gentlemen fully worthy the large share of public confidence and patronage they have ever enjoyed.

THE FIFTH AVENUE MARKET.

A Dead Lock Reached—Money supply cut off From the Contractor.

The Market Committe of Pittsburgh Councils held a meeting in their room in city building last night. There was a full attendance on the part of the members. A report was presented and approved recommending Councils to purchase for a market place, the Denny site in the Sixteenth ward, the same as was favorably reported last year. The committee also advise the acceptance of both the Renier and Baum sites, as offered.

The Sub-Committee on the building of the Fifth avenue market house, presented a report recommending the committee to withhold additional payments to the contractor for its erection until he complies with the plans and specifications made when he agreed to do the work. This resolution was adopted, and Mr. Malone, the contractor was allowed the privilege of the floor to explain to the committee the cause of the tardiness in the work and of departure from the specifications. On his appeal, a resolution was offered and referred to the building committee providing for the appointment of an arbitrator. As the matter stands it looks very much as if this dead lock, between the Market Committee, and the builder, will cause still greater delay in the completion of the Fifth avenue market house.

Distillery Seized.

Yesterday morning United States District Attorney Swoope received information that the distillery and rectifying establishment of Hess & Rolling, Luzerne county, had been seized. The distillery, it appears, had been registered "out of use"—which, properly translated, meant out of operation. The detectives, however, suspicioned something was wrong in the neighborhood, and finally made a descent upon the place, when their suspicions were confirmed by the finding of about two thousand barrels of distilled whiskey. They further detected the employes at work refilling old barrels bearing cancelled stamps. Collector Hoyt, who has that district, at once seized the establishment, and so notified Attorney Swoope, who will file his libel as soon as full particulars are received.

Ocean Travel in 1870

A recent number of the London Times giving an account of the eight different lines running across the Atlantic, says they number one hundred and eight vessels and conveyed 302,148 passengers and nearly 1,700,000 tons of freight. In stating the proportionate amount of passengers carried by the different lines it seems the celebrated Inman Royal Mail line of vessels have more than the others, exceeding them by about 5,000 which proves its reputation for speed and accomodation. Parties desirous of making a trip can obtain the necessary information and have their berths secured months if necessary in advance of their leaving at the Company's office, where a plan of cabins can be seen.

THE OIL REGIONS.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS.

Intense excitement is raging concerning oil lands in Cranberry township, nearly opposite Reno. Three wells are about completed in that vicinity, and the prospect that they will prove large producing wells is very flattering.

One of these wells on the John Milton farm, owned by McDonald, Hefferman, Findley and Simon, of Oil City, is now being tested. This well, known as the "Mollie well," was drilled by Peter Nolan, an experienced operator, and is 907 feet deep, with thirty feet of sand, equal in quality to any found in the oil region. The company owning the well have a lease of thirty acres, all of which they propose developing at once.

This well is southeast from Reno, near the Bredin and Milton wells, and has a heavier sand rock, and the belief that the territory still further east would prove more productive, some parties, on Tuesday, leased twenty acres adjoining the lease on which the well is located, paying therefor one half the oil and $20 bonus per acre.

The prospects are very flattering that this territory will prove productive.—Franklin Citizen.

Well No. 2 Phillips Bros. Lease, Rooker farm, Pithole, commenced to pump oil at midnight Saturday, starting off at the rate of fifteen barrels per day, with prospects of increasing. Entire depth of well 899 feet; fourth sand about sixteen feet deep, and of excellent quality; the well has a large supply of gas. No. 1, same lease, holds on at about eighty barrels per day.

A well on the McCullen farm, Scrubgrass, owned by Buchanan & Young, commenced pumping on Saturday last, and is pronounced a sixty barrel well.

A well owned by West, Foley and others located on the Baum tract, Patchell run, commenced pumping last Friday, and is yielding 20 barrels per day, heavy oil.

The Rocket farm, lying to the southeast of the former site of Panther City, near Pithole, was sold a few days since for $105,000, to Messrs. Phillips Bros. and the bluffs are fairly bristling with derricks already up or being constructed. The sand rock in this locality is fully as thick as that of the flats which were so productive a few years since. This farm contains ninety acres.

Rouseville has been, for the last two years, rapidly increasing in population, and has become a live place. The large number of people getting on and off the trains at that point is an evidence of its importance, and its merchants and business men generally are of that class that will make any town prosper.

A company of enterprising ladies have secured a thirty acre lease near Utica, four miles above Sugar Creek, on which they intend putting down a test well without delay. May lots of good luck and big streams of green petroleum attend the efforts of this spirited fraternity of lady operators.

Work on the extension of the Pithole Valley Railroad, from Pithole to Pleasantville, is, we understand, to be commenced as soon as the weather becomes settled. The Railroad is at present doing a good business, under the efficient management of Mr. J. T. Blair, The popular Superintendent.

PITHOLE OIL FIELD.—The excitement created at Pithole by the striking of an 80 barrel well, a few weeks ago, is increasing, and wells recently tested give good ground for the belief that a large field of new and valuable territory has been discovered. Oil territory is in great demand, and the general impression is that all the territory lying between Pithole and Tionesta is very valuable, and will prove good oil land. The Copeland farm, on which a well has been flowing a barrel per day for years, is within three miles of Tionesta, and a number of other wells will also soon be put down on this tract. Other tracts lying between the Copeland farm and Tionesta will soon be developed.

A CHARITABLE APPEAL.

A Case of Suffering.

We will not spoil the eloquent and earnest appeal of Mrs. Wade, by attempting to strengthen it, by any words of ours, but content ourselves with simply commending the subject so interesting and so well presented by one whose statements, no one will distrust, to the favorable consideration of our readers, not doubting that relief will come quickly from many quarters. Any funds left at this office for the afflicted family, will be promptly placed in the hands of Mrs. Wade, for its proper application and use.

APPEAL TO THE HUMANE.

EDITORS GAZETTE: How little do those of our fellow citizens, who do not consider the poor know of the misery and suffering to be found in our midst, among a class of persons who never felt the pinching hand of want, till sickness or adverse circumstances brought it in grasp upon them, with a pressure that well nigh extinguished ever ray of hope, in their sad hearts. We have many wealthy generous men and women, in our city, whose hearts and purses are open to every genuine case of sorrow and suffering. There are many others equally wealthy, perhaps equally generous, who deprive themselves the pleasure of giving, because they are opposed to indiscriminate giving, and have neither the time nor the inclination to investigate the cases that come to their knowledge. With the hope that some of these persons may read this article, we beg leave to make known to them, through your columns, which are known to be found ready to aid in any good work, one of the saddest cases of genuine suffering and want we have ever met. It is that of Mr. Campbell, who resides, with his wife and three children, on the corner of Rose and Grove streets, Pittsburgh. Mr. Campbell comparatively a young man, is dying of a terrible cancer on his face. He has been so long sick that the means he had saved by industry, are now expended, and he said is now almost entirely dependent upon the sympathies of their fellow citizens, for their daily bread. So far as we can learn, he has been an honest industrious man—following the river for a living, and was, for a long time in the employ of Capt. Dean. Many have been kind to him, and a more truly grateful man I have never met. While thanking every one who has remembered him in his suffering and affliction, he offers his special thanks to Dr. Dickson and "The Pittsburgh Association for the relief of the Poor, for the kindness and aid they have given him.

We feel certain that if Mr. Campbell's case is made know to the river men, who, as a class, are proverbially kind and humane, they will do something for his relief. Could there be a situation more terrible than his? Dying in the strength of his manhood, of a lingering, hopeless disease, tortured with the thought that his wife and helpless little ones can no longer look to him for support, that while he nerves himself to bear the agony, the suffering of his dreadful disease, powerless to help himself or them, he knows not where the next meal shall come from, or how the just claim of his landlord is to be met.- An interview with this grateful suffering man will repay the effort of a visit to him. The appeal to the benevolent and humane to do all they can to mitigate his sufferings by donations of those nourishing comforts which the invalid requires, food and clothing for his family, which may be sent to his residence, or if money, which, may we not say, dear Mr. Editor you will gladly receive for his benefit if it inconvenient for the donners to visit Mr. Campbell. FIRE LAST NIGHT.

Two Houses Totally Destroyed—Loss About $3,000.

The alarm of fire struck from box 67 about half-past ten o'clock last night, was occasioned by the burning of two frame dwelling-houses situate on Mill, just beyond Thirty-third street, in what is known as "Skedunk" hollow. The fire was first discovered issuing from the roof of the rear house by Mr. James O'Donnell, who lives nearly opposite, and who had just returned from work and gone up stairs to go to bed. He immediately went over to the house and commenced knocking to awaken the inmates, as he supposed that the house was occupied. Learning, however, from the neighbors that it was empty, he hastened down to Penn avenue and notified the policeman on duty, who struck the alarm. The front house had never been occupied, having received the finishing coat of paint yesterday, and was to have been moved into to-morrow. The other had been vacated by a man named Oliver Payne only the day before. There were various opinions as to its origin, one of which was that a fire had been kindled to dry the plastering, but as it was first discovered in the rear, or old, building, this theory falls to the ground. Another is that it was the work of an incendiary and we think this the correct supposition from the fact that a man was seen to enter the house by a woman named Hall, who lives opposite, about nine o'clock last night. She stated that she was standing in her door and saw a man go into the cellar and come out again and walk up towards the Railroad track. Presently he returned and went in again, how long he remained the second time she does not know as she thought he was one of the workmen employed about the building and paid no further attention to him

The Independence and Niagara were promptly on the ground and we have no doubt were instrumental in saving much of the surrounding property, notwithstanding there was great difficulty in obtaining water, they being obliged to pump a supply from an ice pond near at hand.

The houses were owned by Hugh and Charles Gaithers of Allegheny, and were totally destroyed. The loss is estimated to be about $3,000. Whether there was any insurance we were unable to learn.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH,
164 Fourth avenue, Mar. 11, 1871.

As our city is liable a visitation of that terrible disease, small pox, (it being now very prevalent in some of the Eastern cities), we would urge upon our citizens the importance of immediate vaccination. The Physician of the Board of Health will be in attendance at the office of the Board, No. 164 Fourth avenue, on Monday of each week, from 2 to 3 P. M., for the purpose of gratuitous vaccination, and all persons are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity.

ALMOST A TRAGEDY.

A Man Shoots at His Wife—The Ball Misses the Mark and Wounds a Neighbor—Jealousy the Cause—The Husband in the Lock-up.

The Seventeenth ward last evening was the scene of considerable excitement, occasioned by a sanguinary domestic difficulty between a man and his wife, which almost resulted in a tragedy. The man's name is George Loibel. He resides in Twenty-first street and it appears for some reason has become very jealous of his wife without the slightest cause she avers. Last evening he came home for supper and commenced to upbraid her, when a dispute arose between them. He at last lost all control of himself, and drawing a revolver, before he could be prevented, fired. The ball whizzed past the head of his wife, fortunately missing its mark, but struck the right hand of a Mrs. Porter, who was standing near by, and went through it, inflicting a very painful wound.

The infuriated husband was immediately seized and held in subjection until his wrath cooled down. Subsequently he was arrested by the police and taken to the lock-up about ten o'clock upon complaint of Mrs. Porter. He spent the night there and this morning the affair will be investigated, when probably other facts will be developed.

Loibel is a one legged German about forty-eight years of age; his wife is thirty-eight. The cause of his outbreak was a statement made to him during the afternoon by an Irish acquaintance that he (the Irishman) had had criminal intercourse with Mrs. Loibel, twice during that day. Loibel enraged went home and questioned his wife with the result as stated.

FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT.

Second Anniversary—And How It Was Celebrated.

Yesterday the colored people of this vicinity celebrated the Second Anniversaay of the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment. There seemed to have been no particular effort made at public display, and the only outside demonstration was the parade of the Avery Guards, who, headed by a brass band, and in uniform, paraded the principal thoroughfares of both cities in the afternoon. They made a good appearance, and exhibited a proficiency in drill much beyond what was anticipated.

In the evening Layfayette Hall was made the grand rallying point. A committee of arrangements, had these exercises in charge, and prepared a programme, which, as carried out, embraced addresses, a banquet and a general promenade. The orators of the occasion were Rev. Mr. Matthews, Rev. D. H. Williams, Prof. B. R. Sampson and Mr. J. C. Brown, all of whom spoke of their chosen theme in a manner which elicited the liveliest enthusiasm from the listeners.

The speeches having been disposed of, the banqueting and promenading was entered into with zeal by all, especially the younger members of the assemblage, who protracted the festivities to a late hour. An excellent band of music being in attendance, added considerably to the attraction of the occasion. Altogether the day, though spent without particular ostentation, was happily commemorated.

THE STATE.

WAYNESBURG is agitating the question: "Will a billiard saloon in the place pay."

WINTER has begun to linger in the lap of spring in the papers in various sections.

THE sugar making season is over and the amount manufactured is supposed to have been unusually small.

POOLS of blood upon a bridge and evidences of a fierce struggle, blood for 150 yards on the snow and cries of murder heard the night before, lead the people of Scranton to believe that an assassination took place.

THE Washington Review says: It was at first feared that the heavy frosts and slight freezes on Thursday and Friday nights of last week had killed the fruit; but inquiry among many of our farmers leads us to the belief that it is still safe, possibly with the exception of peaches and cherries in some localities.

WE think the Somerset Herald meant to do no harm to the business men of its own county, when it said: "We know that many of our young ladies take pride in smiling on almost every handsome young commercial traveler that strays this way." Commercial travelers will doubtless keep on straying, for Somerset young ladies are handsome.

THE Washington Review appends the following lines to a marriage notice of a Mr. Robert Allison and a Miss Sadie Scott:

"Sadie is good, Sadie's all right—
She is Robert's sweetest delight;
Robert is nice, Robert is fine—
Sadie loves him better than wine."

THE Mt. Prospect Presbyterian church in Mt. Pleasant township, Washington county, was destroyed by fire last Thursday week. Sparks from the chimney ignited the roof and the destruction was complete. The loss was from $12,000 to $15,000 and there is no insurance.

THE Greensburg Herald says: The house of E. T. Weller, living on the farm belonging to Benjamine Yealy, near the line between Ligonier and Cook townships, on the road leading from Ligonier to Donegal, was entered a few days ago, while the members of the family were absent, and $200 stolen. The doors of the house were locked, but the thief entered by opening a window. He then secured the money, and departed the same way. Strange to say, the thief took the $200 from a pocket book containing $300, leaving $100 and the pocket book, which was discovered a short time afterward. No trace of the thief nor the money has yet been found.

A LITERARY SOCIETY has had weekly meetings at Chapman's school house, Washington county, during the winter, and a local paper had been read each evening, and it brought forth some disagreeable thoughts, hard words and harder blows. On the evening mentioned—it being the last of the series of meetings—the persons feeling agrieved by the aforesaid articles read in public, raised a row, in which a young man named Eber A. Chapman was cut with a knife, inflicting two severe but not dangerous wounds in the back, near the left shoulder. A few others escaped with sore heads and black eyes. Literature seems to be of the solid sort out there.

A YOUNG colored girl was committed to the Chester County Jail, last week charged with poisoning the family with which she lived as a domestic. On the evening of March 14th, Mr. John Smith, of East Bradford, and his nephew, a lad, were taken violently sick soon after supper, and Dr. Hartman being called in, he discovered that they had been poisoned. Proper remedies were applied and the sufferers relieved. Suspicion attached to the servant, and on being questioned she confessed putting in some mush a lot of poison that was used to kill mice in the cellar. The girl is quite young, and was evidently ignorant of the effect of the dose she was administering.
